ENEMIES OF CHANGE REAFFIRM LOYALTY

Guffey Asserts Hughes Is 'Disqualified' by Politics But Says Robinson Is Eligible for Vacancy.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(AP)—Roosevelt men, continuing their furious drive to alter the supreme court, declared on the senate floor today that opponents of the re-vamping bill are trying to smash President Roosevelt.

The assertion drew immediate denials from the Democratic opposition, and the ensuing debate brought into the open certain political charges and counter-charges which usually are only whispered in the cloakrooms.

Senator Logan, Democrat, Kentucky, has declared that some Democratic senators who owe their election to President Roosevelt have "played the ingrate" by opposing the bill.

Wheeler Replies.
Hardly had the assertion been made than Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, replied with an accusation that the administration had been guilty of ingratitude in seeking to "destroy" men who in 1932 abandoned their long-time political affiliations to back his candidacy.

Guffey Speaks.
Previously, Senator Guffey delivered a prepared address contending that throughout its history the supreme court has been "a partisan political body," that "the statesmanship of President Roosevelt" had recently "forced the court to act on behalf of the people."

The court and Chief Justice Hughes, he said, entered the current controversy over the reorganization bill with "masterly political strategy." Hughes he assailed as one whose background was political, who received his judgeship as a "political plum."

"Do I understand that you are objecting to Chief Justice Hughes on the ground that his life has been political?"

Georgia Child Bride Returned to Parents

CAMILLA, Ga., July 7.—(AP)—City Court Judge M. A. Warren said today he had remanded Christine Holland, a 12-year-old child bride, to custody of her parents following a habeas corpus hearing here.

Judge Warren said the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will D. Holland, presented a birth certificate showing the girl was 12 years old last January. They applied for the writ on the grounds she was not of legal consent age.

Testimony at the hearing disclosed the girl was married to George W. Fowler, 21, before Justice of the Peace Charles Nesmith, in Pelham, Saturday. In applying for the license from Ordinary R. E. L. Culpepper here, it was said Fowler gave the bride's age as 17.

The girl voiced a tearful plea to be allowed to remain with her husband.

It was stated the parents plan annulment proceedings in Mitchell superior court.

Opposition Feared From Both Arabs, Jews; Heavy Guards Are Stationed.

JERUSALEM, July 7.—(AP)—Arab and Jew listened in grave silence tonight to Britain's decision to cleave the country that each believes is his.

Modern radio carried the British royal commission's report across the Holy Land and with it announcement that the British government would accept the recommendation to split the country into three parts—one Jewish, one Arabic and one British ruled.

The streets of Jerusalem were deserted long before the broadcast began. The populace rushed to cafes, theaters and public halls where radios were available.

Soldiers on Guard.
Only native and British police and soldiers remained at strategic corners to guard against violence. They were heavily armed and equipped with protective gas masks and with tear gas bombs to repel rioters.

The atmosphere was tense, quiet. Both Arab and Jew have professed opposition to division of the country. But there was no immediate indication of the trend of reaction to actual reading of the report (which also must have League of Nations' action inasmuch as Britain rules Palestine under League mandate.)

The Jews had voted an hour before on delegates to the forthcoming 20th Zionist congress and also on their view of the partition question. They voted actually before the partition announcement had been made officially. Police kept close guard at the polls.

Arab Council to Meet.
The Arab higher committee will meet tomorrow morning to discuss the report. The national council of Jews issued an appeal for calm and quiet.

But at Nabulus in the interior, British Tommies stripped to the waist and worked through the heat.

By the Associated Press.
Henson Klick, one of more than a score of men injured yesterday in a bloody encounter between police and strikers at the Alcoa, Tenn., plant of the Aluminum Company of America, died last night in a hospital.

He was shot through the neck. Seventeen strikers and four policemen were carried to the hospital with bullet wounds following a gun and club battle near the gates of the fabricating plant which reopened after being closed seven weeks because of a strike.

Last night company officials said a check revealed that at least 11 officers suffered pistol or club wounds in the battle.

Klick was 30 years old. He lived near Alcoa.

Meanwhile, shifts changed at the mill at 7 p. m., under the protection of a machine gun company of Tennessee national guardsmen from Knoxville.

The union had abandoned its picket line. Infantry companies of guardsmen from Athens and Elizabethton and a special squad from Nashville to handle tear gas and riot guns were expected to reach Alcoa before midnight.

State Adjutant General R. O. Smith arrived from Middle Tennessee to take charge of strike duty.

Two-Day Forum Planned To Strengthen County's Bid for Progress Award.

By HERMAN HANCOCK.
Asserting that The Atlanta Constitution's $7,500 Progressive Government Awards "will advance progress in Georgia to a degree that would otherwise have taken many years to attain," Judge Frank A. Smith, ordinary and commissioner of Rabun county, yesterday announced a two-day public forum on "Education and Public Health in Rabun County."

M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, will speak on "Equal Educational Opportunity for Every Child in Georgia" as one feature of the educational program tomorrow, and Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, director of the State Department of Public Health, will preside over the afternoon and night health meetings Saturday.

Other speakers listed.
Others on tomorrow's educational program include: C. S. Hubbard, director of textbook distribution, speaking on "New Georgia School Libraries;" M. D. Mobley, director of vocational education, on "Vocational Agriculture;" and Miss Elizabeth Mayes, state supervisor of home economics, "A Home Economics Department in Every Georgia High School."

Speakers on the health program are: Miss Carolina Tillinghast speaking on "Public Health Nursing Program;" F. W. Rhodes on "Sanitary Engineering;" Dr. Guy Lunsford on "County Health Work;" Dr. H. J. Bickert on "Maternal and Child Health;" and Dr. S.

Nine Deaths Reported; Chicago Thermometers Shoot Up 20 Degrees.

By the Associated Press.
Hot winds fanned a heat wave across the middle west yesterday. Nine deaths were attributed to heat stroke in the Chicago area.

Sultry breezes from the southwest brought Chicago's temperature up 20 points in six hours to 90. Readings of 95 or 96 were predicted for today. Thousands of harassed residents sought respite at the beaches and forest preserves.

Temperatures were much above normal in the Great Lakes region, the middle and upper Mississippi valley, and the lower Missouri valley and the Central Plains.

Generally fair and continued warm weather was forecast. Thermometers registered 103 at Lincoln, Neb.; 100 at Yankton, S. D.; 96 at Mitchell, S. D.; 94 at Sioux Falls; 93 at Minneapolis; 92 at St. Louis; 91 at Springfield, Ill., and 90 at Centennial, Ill.

Three hundred perspiring convicts laboring in a quarry, were ordered back to their cells by Warden George Sehring of the old prison at Joliet, Ill.

The Weather Bureau at Washington announced the hot spell over the Great Plains "made the need of moisture rather urgent in many places."

But no showers were sighted in the broad farm belt where, just a year ago, crops shriveled in hardpan fields.

Ultimatum Issued By Japan to China

SHANGHAI, July 8 (Thursday) (AP)—The Domei (Japanese) News Agency reported from Peiping today that a spokesman for Japanese military headquarters there declared the Chinese forces battling maneuvering Japanese troops would be "wiped out" unless they threw down their arms immediately.

The virtual ultimatum came, Domei reported, at 10 a. m. (9 p. m. Atlanta time, Wednesday) after five hours of severe fighting for possession of the strategic Fengtai railway junction and Marco Polo bridge, ten miles west of China's ancient capital.

At that time the Japanese high command was reported to have accepted a Chinese request for an armistice. The Japanese spokesman indicated, however, cessation of hostilities depended upon the immediate withdrawal of Chinese forces in the vicinity.

Rivers Gains Health Daily, Doctors Aver

LOS ANGELES, July 6.—Governor Rivers, of Georgia, today was reported continuing on the way to recovery from his recent illness. The Governor is still confined to the Cedars of Lebanon hospital, where he has been a patient for about two weeks.

Governor Rivers' physicians reported that he is taking additional nourishment and regaining strength. He is expected to be kept in the hospital for another week or ten days and after that will be under care of his doctors here for a time before being permitted to return to Georgia.

INDUSTRY MOVES FASTEST SINCE '29

Substantial Gains Shown in First Half of 1937 Over Same Period in '36.

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP)—America's industrial machine worked at the fastest clip since 1929 in the first half of 1937, showing substantially greater profits and paying stockholders bigger dividends than in the comparable period last year.

The Associated Press index of industrial activity averaged 104.5 per cent of the 1929-30 level in the first six months, a gain of 23 per cent over the corresponding months of 1936.

Heavy demand for steel from railroads, builders and manufacturers stepped operations of steel mills up 38 per cent over the 1936 half. Despite strikes that closed down approximately one-fifth of the industry for a few weeks, operations averaged 84 per cent of potential capacity against 61 per cent.

Building Picks Up.
Total building construction, measured by F. W. Dodge's tabulation of contracts awarded, picked up 20 per cent this year. The fact building costs pushed above the 1929 average during the period is held by some analysts to have curtailed construction somewhat.

Residential building, however, hung up a thumping 59 per cent increase. This was due in large measure, trade circles said, to a shortage of available homes either for rent or sale and the steady rise in national income.

Automobile production, a leader in the upswing during recent years, turned in a comparatively small 12 per cent gain in the first half. This was the result primarily of the high rate of assemblies last year. Statisticians placed output at 2,900,000 cars.

Weak Carrier Wave Signals Received, Indicating She Is on Land; Colorado Catapults Planes Into Air Near Howland.

BIG NAVAL CARRIER HAS 98 FLYING SHIPS

Sea, Air Craft To Sweep Hundreds of Thousands of Square Miles of Pacific Ocean in Few Days.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—(AP)—Globe Wireless tonight announced receipt of a message from its Honolulu station saying the battleship Colorado had launched its catapult planes in the Howland island search for Amelia Earhart.

HONOLULU, July 7.—(AP)—Admiral O. G. Murfin, directing the search for Amelia Earhart, said today it should be known by mid-afternoon Monday whether the round-the-world flyer and her navigator, Frederick J. Noonan, lost in the south seas, are alive or dead.

The admiral, commandant of the 14th naval district with headquarters here, said the aircraft carrier Lexington should reach the search area Monday morning and if it used all its planes would be able to scout thoroughly 36,000 square miles about the Phoenix islands in six hours.

If first results are negative, the admiral added, the Lexington will extend its search as long as its fuel and gasoline lasts. He stated this probably would be about three days.

The admiral expressed belief if the fliers were found they would be in the Phoenix group, of which the Winslow bank represents the northern fringe. Naval calculations, he said, indicated prevailing winds would have blown the plane of its course toward the southeast.

The battleship Colorado, approaching the area of operations from the north, directed the coast guard cutter Itasca to search an area southwest of Howland island, goal of Miss Earhart's 2,570-mile flight from Lae, New Guinea, last Friday.

The Colorado was headed for Winslow banks, east of Howland. Search Outlined.

Admiral Murfin outlined the search procedure a few hours after weak carrier wave signals, possibly from Miss Earhart's plane, were reported heard again while hope for aviation's first lady sank to its lowest point since she disappeared in mid-Pacific.

Authorities agreed that if the signals came from the plane Miss Earhart and her navigator, Fred Goetz, must have reached land because the radio would not operate if the plane alighted on the water.

The battleship Colorado was be-

INSURGENTS GIVEN SHATTERING BLOW WEST OF MADRID

Loyalists Capture Two Strategic Villages in New Strong Advance.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Front, July 7.—(AP)—Heavily reinforced government troops struck a shattering blow at the insurgent lines west of Madrid tonight to capture two strategic villages in one of the heaviest government offensives in the almost year-old civil war.

In Madrid the government announced Villanueva de la Canada, due west of the capital, had fallen before the assault of Defense General Jose Miaja's troops.

Brune, a key point near-by, was already in government hands, official dispatches said, but the insurgent command denied that Brune had been occupied.

Attack Was Sudden.

The sudden attack along the west central front, designed to lift the eight-month insurgent siege of Madrid, stretched on a zigzag line from Escorial, northwest of Madrid, to the region below Navalcarnero, southwest of the capital.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's insurgent lines buckled and broke under the attack south of Escorial, government dispatches said, while even farther south more than 25,000 government troops were hurled against Navalcarnero, main supply base and concentration point for insurgent troops on the Madrid front.

Insurgents Admit Repulses.

Insurgent sources admitted that the sweeping offensive might necessitate the withdrawal of insurgent forces from other fronts, and might even halt, at least for the time being, the insurgent drive toward Santander, the next insurgent objective on the Biscayan coast.

(The ministry of defense announced in Madrid that Villanueva de la Canada had been occupied with the capture of artillery, anti-tank guns and large quantities of ammunition.)

The insurgents, disputing the government claim to possession of Brune, asserted that 5,000 government troops had been cut off from the main army there by a counter-attack.

Insurgent headquarters said the coastal drive from Bilbao toward Santander had been terminated, and that large forces had been shifted to drive inland below Santander in an effort to cut off the city's defenders from their Asturian allies.

School Superintendent Conferred With Governor.

Hope that Georgia will soon provide a nine-month school term for every child was expressed yesterday by Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, when he returned from Los Angeles, where he has been conferring with Governor Rivers.

The superintendent and the Governor discussed appointments to the new state board of education, free textbooks and the seven months school term program.

"Governor Rivers has been a mighty sick man, but he is now considerably improved," Dr. Collins said. "The people of Los Angeles and California are unusually thoughtful and appreciative of Georgia's able, enterprising and progressive young Governor."

Sharks May Worry Amelia Most, Other Fliers' Experiences Show

Sea Monsters Follow Forced-Down Plane of John Rodgers and Crew, Spin Emergency Raft of Navy Flyer by Hitting With Tails.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(AP)—Sharks may be the worst mental hazard confronting Amelia Earhart if her plane is floating on the Pacific, navy officers indicated today.

Records show that when Commander John Rodgers and a crew of four were forced down during a flight from San Francisco to Honolulu in 1925 they appeared to be bothered more by sharks than by the actual hardships endured.

Both Rodgers and Chief Aviation Pilot V. W. Harshman, who was lost for five days off South America in 1931, dwelt at length in their reports on the deep sea monsters that played about them.

During the nine days in which Rodgers kept his seaplane afloat and sailed 450 miles under emergency rig before being picked up by a submarine off Kauai, Hawaii, the commander made note of a "dozen sharks."

"A school of barracuda followed us most of the day," was his entry for September 4, 1925. This was the day after the food had been exhausted and fresh water was rapidly disappearing, but there was no mention of this.

On Saturday, September 5, Rodgers reported that "two tiger sharks were noticed following the plane."

One of Rodgers' men said later that each morning at daylight, when the fins of sharks reappeared near the plane, the commander would lean over the side and yell at them:

"Not today, mister, not today." Harshman, pilot of one plane in a seaplane squadron stationed at Coco Solo, Canal Zone, became separated from the squadron in the clouds as the planes flew in formation off the west coast of South America on March 17, 1931. He alighted on the water and took to his rubber life raft when his plane began to sink.

He reported that on the following day, after he had drifted all night, "sharks started bothering me, but I managed to keep them away from the boat by using my oar like a spear, and hitting them with it."

"They would come up under the boat, hit it with their tails and spin me around several times, when I did not see them coming up and get a chance to hit them first," he added. "I also saw numerous spotted dolphins. These fish were most playful and seemed to take a delight in rubbing their sides against the bottom of my boat, in the same spirit, I think, as a horse rubs against a fence or tree."

Harshman was picked up on March 22 by the steamship Cerico, Huxford and asserting Miss Earhart "will be rescued alive."

Strange Message.

"Amelia landed exhausted in a small boat on a small reef 60 miles southwest of Howland," said the telegram. "She has a weak, portable radio, food and water, hardly strength to use them. She will be rescued alive and taken to a ship, probably Japanese, and you will get official confirmation tomorrow. Noonan not with her."

The Japanese aircraft carrier Kamoie and the Japanese survey ship Koshuue were co-operating in the search in the vicinity of the Marshall islands, 600 miles west and north of Howland.

At one time during the morning Putnam was on the point of flying to Honolulu aboard a clipper plane but changed his mind. "I can do just as much here (San Francisco) as in Honolulu," he said.

Putnam's Son Expected.

Putnam's son, David Binney Putnam, left Vero Beach, Fla., by plane for San Francisco, expecting to arrive tomorrow.

Searchers pointed out that the rescue operations, newly co-ordinated under their command, had yet to reach their climax, expected to develop on the arrival of the $400,000 aircraft carrier Lexington and three swift destroyers at the scene.

Making 33 knots (nearly 38 miles an hour), the Lexington was approaching Hawaii in its dash out of San Diego. It hoped to arrive at Lahaina Roads, near Honolulu, tomorrow at 8 p. m. (Atlanta time), refuel and speed more than 1,500 miles to the Howland region to release its 98 fighting planes in the hunt.

Navy sources said the Lexington's planes, if used all at once, could cover about 30,000 square miles from dawn to dusk. The Lexington had 98 planes, some of them capable of high speed, others able to fly nearly 5,000 miles at a hop and land on open sea.

See Two Weeks' Search.

Just when the Lexington's planes would get into action remained problematical. At her 33-knot speed, which exceeded the pace of the Atlantic's swiftest liners, she could cover the stretch between Hawaii and Howland in about 40 hours.

Friends of Putnam expressed belief there would be grounds for continuing the search another two weeks even if no further word came from the lost plane.

Recalling the unsuccessful hunt for the British flyer Charles T. P. Uim, and two companions off Hawaii, in December, 1935, they said three United States navy amphibian planes and 23 navy vessels covered 100,000 square miles in one dawn-to-dusk operation.

The Colorado's three planes were deemed swifter than the amphibians in the Uim search but were known to be of comparatively short range.

The five feverish nights of radio manifestations so convinced Putnam and others of Miss Earhart's safety that they said there would be justification for searching the southern island area over and over.

Just how widely this southern search might extend was a matter of discretion with the naval command, but if it followed the sweep of reefs, islands and other formations it might make a great semi-circle about Howland, beginning 175 east, swinging southwestward to the Phoenix islands, thence westward along a veritable chain and finally to the north as far as the Marshall group.

A line drawn through this zone would be about 2,000 miles long. The searching area along such a course would depend upon the distance covered on each side.

Putnam Still Confident.

Putnam reiterated his conviction that some of the numerous radio signals were from the lost plane. He argued this was a compelling reason for believing the craft was aground somewhere, because it could not send messages

Survey Shows Just How Sick Americans Are

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(UP)—Rheumatism is America's most chronic disease, G. St. J. Perrot, United States public health service statistician, said tonight.

More than a year ago the public health service began a survey of 3,000,000 citizens to find out how sick Americans were. The figures, now being tabulated under Perrot's supervision, show that rheumatism takes first place. Four out of every 100 persons have been kept from work or otherwise disabled by this affliction.

Heart disease, the number one killer of modern man, is second on the list of diseases that disable or cripple a large section of the Americans. The survey showed 3.5 out of every 100 persons suffer from this disease. The "minor circulatory" classification is third with a ratio of just under three out of every 100 individuals. These chronic diseases of the heart and circulatory systems combined are the greatest menace to health and life.

Diseases of the lungs are fourth and those of the digestive tract, fifth. Asthma and hay fever, dreaded summer and fall afflictions, impair the health of 24 persons out of every 1,000.

PUTNAM SQUELCHES COLLAPSE REPORTS

False Break-Down Tales Make it Harder for Relatives, He Says.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—(AP) George Palmer Putnam, husband of the missing Amelia Earhart, took time tonight from his radio vigil to squelch reports he had "collapsed" under the strain.

"I have been reading," he said, "that I have collapsed and that I have broken down, sobbing, and that my report has me in a hospital, in a bad way."

"In the existing circumstances, what is said about me is not of the least importance except that false reports heighten the anxiety of friends and relatives."

"If I seem to have thrown up the sponge, it just makes things harder for them."

"I have not collapsed. I have indulged in no public sobbing. The nearest I have been to a hospital is the home of an old-time friend, Dr. Harry E. Clay, who has lent me a helping hand."

Mrs. Beatrice Noonan, wife of Frederick J. Noonan, navigator for Amelia Earhart, today received a letter and a package of pictures from her husband.

The pictures were from Caripito, Venezuela, and the letter was posted at Bandung, Java, June 20. The letter contained praise by Noonan of Miss Earhart's ability as a flyer. He said in part:

"Amelia is a grand person for such a trip. She is the only woman flyer I would care to make such a trip with, because in addition to being a fine companion she can take hardship as well as a man, and work like one."

ORGANIZATION PLAN

Unemployment Compensation Work Started.

Field representatives of the Georgia Unemployment Compensation Bureau have been instructed to concentrate organization in the eight largest counties of the state, W. W. Larsen, division director, said yesterday.

They are DeKalb, Fulton, Richmond, Chatham, Bibb, Muscogee, Dougherty and Floyd, he said, and were selected in order to complete records for the largest number of employers in the shortest possible time.

"After we have covered these eight counties, the field men will take up the other counties of the state," Larsen said. "Our goal is to complete our file to show every employer in this state."

Abundant Food, Water, Shelter Are Available on Canton Island

Ground Suitable for Landing, Says Scientist Who Visited Phoenix Group to View Eclipse of Sun From May 13 Until June 9.

John E. Willis, astronomer at the United States Naval Observatory, who was a member of the National Geographic Society-United States Navy eclipse expedition to Canton Island last month, has written an exclusive dispatch for the United Press describing living conditions on the island which is one of the nearest strips of land to Howland Island and is in the vicinity of the South Pacific in which Amelia Earhart's plane is missing. He tells of climatic and weather conditions as he observed them on this tiny atoll, but the same findings apply to the open sea on which Miss Earhart and her navigator are reported missing.

By JOHN E. WILLIS. WASHINGTON, July 7.—Canton island of the Phoenix group is an atoll, having a strand of land varying from nothing to about half a mile wide surrounding a lagoon about nine miles long.

The National Geographic Society and the U. S. navy eclipse expedition to observe the total eclipse of the sun of June 8 was stationed on Canton island from May 13 to June 9, a total of 26 days.

During that time winds averaged from the east, usually steady at 10 miles per hour. There were variations of direction over a range of 60 degrees; for perhaps two days, there was no wind at all.

Several Storms.

The open sea usually had a small proportion of white caps. There were several storms during our stay on the island, lasting about an hour or two. During these, the winds rose to perhaps 40 miles an hour. The temperature of the water in the lagoon and the temperature of the air over water was about 83 degrees Fahrenheit. The air temperature varied only six degrees between day and night, in the shade.

The depth of the water in the lagoon was about 10 feet near the camp, in the channel, about 200 feet wide, between the lagoon and the sea, the depth of water was about 15 feet.

Except for about two days, which were nearly overcast, scattered clouds covered about 10 percent of the sky.

Airplane Could Land.

The ground was covered with stretches of coral sand, rocks and gravel, so that it might be possible for an airplane to land there.

There were many birds, rats, crabs and fish, all easily caught. Emergency drinking water could be obtained by digging shallow wells, but we did not try it as we obtained our water from the airplane tender which took us to the island from Honolulu.

About a third of an inch of rain fell during the 26 days that we were there. The expedition left on the island a building which we used for a dark room, 14 by 13 feet in size.

Coconut Trees Planted.

There are several coconut trees near the camp and in other places. The British sloop Wellington planted about 1,000 coconuts. The sloop brought a group of New Zealand astronomers to the island to observe the eclipse.

Canton Island is one of the nearest strips of land to Howland Island and the vicinity in which Miss Amelia Earhart and her navigator are reported drifting in their airplane.

The island is one of the most favorable islands in the area on which an aviator might land and the British have taken steps to establish their sovereignty over the island.

The conditions we encountered on Canton Island are, I believe, comparable to those the missing fliers would encounter.

TRAFFIC ARRESTS BOOST CITY TOTAL

3,870 More Cases Booked in First Six Months of This Year.

Strict and impartial enforcement of Atlanta's traffic laws this year has sent the number of police arrests soaring for the first six months of 1937, Station Lieutenant Luther J. Carroll revealed last night.

Police are operating this year on a policy of no ticket fixing, which they hope will lower the number of traffic fatalities in the city. This policy is being rigidly adhered to and even policemen themselves have paid fines because they could not get a ticket "squeaked."

Through midnight July 6, 32,030 arrests had been made, which is 3,870 more than were made during a similar period in 1936 when 28,160 persons were arrested. During the corresponding period in 1935, 23,070 arrests were made, Carroll said.

DULUTH SLAYING CASE TO GO TO GRAND JURY

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., July 7.—Policeman Rube Gorman, of Duluth, today was bound over to the September grand jury in connection with the killing of Chester Mills, 22, also of Duluth, on May 29 last.

Testimony revealed that Mills was shot when Gorman sought to arrest him. The latter, claiming self-defense, asserted Mills reached for a rock to hurl at him.

TRIPLE HANDICAPS ON POLICE RAPPED

Meager Co-ordination of Agencies Criticized in Survey Made by WPA.

Police organization in Georgia was criticized sharply in a WPA survey yesterday which said that police agencies in the state are working under a threefold handicap—decentralization, poor communications, and inadequate training.

"There are in every city two systems of police officers, one maintained by the county and the other by the city," the survey pointed out. "Some counties have seen fit to more or less combine these units, but nowhere in the state is law enforcement carried on as a single unit connected with the state and the nation. Many of our law enforcement problems can be traced directly to this decentralization and meager co-ordination," the survey continued.

Attacking the lack of proper communication facilities, the survey said that "in some counties there is not a telephone in either the courthouse or jail, and neither the sheriff nor his deputies can be reached by telephone." It declared that with the existence of such conditions it is impossible for adequate connection to be maintained with law enforcement agencies of adjoining counties.

The survey blamed lack of proper police training as the cause of many escapes.

"More than one officer in Georgia in time past has used his initiative and ability in capturing desperadoes, but all too often the accused is allowed to escape because the officer has not been tutored in those methods found most satisfactory," the survey emphasized.

RAILWAY EXECUTIVE TO ADDRESS MEETING

Robert S. Henry, assistant to the president of the Association of American Railroads, Washington, D. C., will address the Southern & Southwestern Railway Club at a luncheon today at the Ansley hotel.

Henry will outline the efforts of the railroads, through their cooperative public relations program, to tell their story to the American public.

$75,000 INVOLVED IN REALTY DEALS

Ellis Street Building Sold; New Stores Planned Near Emory.

Two realty transactions involving approximately $75,000 were announced yesterday. One was the sale of a substantial near-in business building, one block from Peachtree street, while the other was an agreement whereby a group of seven stores are to be erected at once on North Decatur road, near Emory University.

Announcement of the sale of the building was made by Harry Crider, of the Adams-Cates Company. It is located at 57 Ellis street, N. E., is a four-story and basement reinforced concrete structure, vacant at present, but occupied for many years by the Index Printing Company, from whom it was purchased by Sam L. Harris and Edward M. Sims. The consideration was not announced.

The building contains 18,000 square feet of space, and has been leased to the Metro Products Company, to be occupied as soon as extensive remodeling has been completed. It measures 56x92 feet.

The group of stores to be built on North Decatur road will adjoin a group of stores which have been there for several years. They are to be erected by Nan-Asa, Inc., a local corporation, and it is understood around $40,000 will be spent in their erection. Ralph W. Didschneit has charge of the plans and construction. According to Perry Adair, of the Adair Realty and Loan Company, several of the stores have already been engaged under a lease, and all will be ready for occupancy about September 15.

JOHN WILLYS ESTATE GROSSES $2,414,729

NEW YORK, July 7.—(P)—John Willys, automobile manufacturer and former ambassador to Poland, who died August 26, 1935, left gross assets of $2,414,729 and a net estate of $1,864,069, it was shown in an estate tax appraisal filed today.

The only property taxable here belonging to Willys, who was a resident of Palm Beach, Fla., consisted of real estate and personal effects totaling $23,422.

Appraisal papers also listed additional property and furnishings outside New York state amounting to $341,349.

ONE KILLED, 2 INJURED WHEN AUTOS COLLIDE

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 7.—(P)—Francis S. Deekins, 41, of (4307 42nd street) Sunnyside, Long Island, was killed today when the car in which he was riding collided with a truck-trailer.

His wife, Evangeline, suffered a possible fracture of the skull and a broken right arm. The driver of the car, Fred Wooland Jr., 29, of (7056 Clover lane) Upper Darby, Pa., was only slightly injured. The truck was driven by George Travis, of Vineland.

She is Mrs. Minerva Drake Stivender, of Leesburg, Fla., and she is taking two courses in Spanish and one in Shakespeare.

She never misses class and is never late. Her professors said today she is one of their best pupils.

MRS. LAURA HAILEY, OF HARTWELL, DIES

Pioneer Was Grandmother of Atlanta Mayor Pro Tem.

Mrs. Laura C. Hailey, pioneer citizen of Hartwell and grandmother of Mayor Pro Tem I. G. Hailey, of Atlanta, died Tuesday afternoon in Greenville, S. C. Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Hartwell.

Mrs. Hailey, who was 87, had been active until she was stricken only a few days ago. She was visiting at the home of a daughter, Mrs. W. H. Keese, at the time of her death.

The widow of Henry F. Hailey, pioneer planter and citizen of Hartwell, she is survived by three other Atlanta grandsons, Dr. Howard Hailey, Gaines W. Hailey and F. G. Hailey. Other survivors are two sons, Francis M. Hailey Sr., of Athens, and George A. Hailey, of Savannah, Fla.; another daughter, Mrs. T. H. Turner, of Denmark, S. C.; and nearly 100 grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

'COURTESY' BILLS FOR LIQUOR ARE HIT

Barrow Representative Calls Plan 'Undemocratic'.

Verlyn Booth, representative of Barrow county, who said he voted for repeal at the 1937 assembly session, declared yesterday any efforts to legalize liquor at a special legislative meeting planned for fall "would be undemocratic."

"I intend to vote against every repeal bill introduced, including the local 'cousin' bills and all the others," he said.

He advocated "some effort toward enforcement," and termed as "foolish" any "statement the prohibition law can't be enforced."

"It can be enforced, and I want to see all agencies combine their efforts to enforce it," he said.

While he declared he had no intention of introducing a bill to form a state prohibition enforcement bureau, he said he would vote for such a measure if it were presented.

AMELIA'S STEPSON EXPRESSES HOPE

Putnam's Son Stops Here En Route to Coast.

"I think they will find them yet," David Binney Putnam, stepson of Amelia Earhart, Putnam, said hopefully as he stopped briefly here yesterday. Putnam is en route to Chicago and San Francisco from his Fort Pierce, Fla., home.

Navy planes joining the extensive search have greatly enhanced the chances that Miss Earhart and her navigator, Frederick J. Noonan, may be found, the son of Miss Earhart's husband, George Palmer Putnam, declared cheerfully.

"If there is anything to the messages that have been sent out," young Putnam said, "yes, I believe they will be saved. I hope I shall get word by the time I reach Chicago that will make it possible for me to return home."

Young Putnam is an automobile dealer and orange grove owner in Fort Pierce.

SCHOOL INSTITUTE OPENING TONIGHT

Instruction Phase Will Be Keynote of Meeting.

Opening an institute on public school instruction at Emory University tonight, Dr. Thomas Alexander, professor of education and dean of new college, Columbia University, will speak on "The Schools at Work on the Problem of Living" at 8:30 o'clock in Glenn Memorial auditorium.

The institute is sponsored by the state department of education and is one of a series to be held at various points in Georgia.

Teachers representing schools throughout the state are expected to participate in the group discussions scheduled for tomorrow morning.

GIRL HURT SLIGHTLY IN AUTO COLLISION

Miss Ruth Drane, of 129 Superior street, Decatur, was treated for head injuries and dismissed at Emory University hospital yesterday after the car she was driving collided with another machine at North Decatur and Oxford road.

Mrs. R. H. Shell, wife of Lieutenant Shell, of Fort McPherson, driver of the other car, was uninjured. Both automobiles were badly damaged, DeKalb county police reported. No cases were made.

Ignorance of State Law Puts Shoe on Wrong Foot

Blushes and a thin pocketbook went together yesterday when a state official learned the status of a 1933 law on traveling expense accounts.

The law provides that officials shall limit their expenses to $2.50 a day while on official business.

This particular official abided by the law, and found it impossible to live within the budget—but made up all excesses from his own pocket.

He has done this regularly for four years only to find the law was ruled unconstitutional shortly after passed.

WPA WILL PROCEED ON REDUCED BASIS

Fewer Projects Will Be Major Change Owing to Labor Dearth.

The Works Progress Administration will carry on in Georgia in the present fiscal year much the same as in the past except for a reduction in the number of projects, Miss Gay B. Shepperson, administrator, said yesterday.

She said the "labor load" decreased nearly 5,000 persons during the fiscal year ended June 30, leaving 25,000 on the rolls.

With the smaller labor load it may not be possible to operate as many projects during the new fiscal year as in the past," Miss Shepperson said. "Otherwise, there will be little change in the pattern."

Farm-to-market and street projects will be carried forward to utilize a large proportion of the male manual labor, she said.

The WPA spent $18,803,979.80 in Georgia during the fiscal year, Miss Shepperson said. This brought the total since the start of WPA to $34,000,000. Although WPA took over FERA in the summer of 1935, it was not until November that it attained full swing.

A "scarcity" of skilled manual labor on the WPA rolls will make it "impossible to undertake as many public building projects as in the past," Miss Shepperson said. Applications for projects, she said, will be considered in the light of labor available in the community.

A national bureau of fine arts would be added to the department of interior under a bill now pending in congress.

Courtesy First Will Be Taught Patrol Officers

Knowledge of first aid, and highway courtesy will be prime requisites for members of the state highway patrol now being organized, Judge Clement E. Sutton, acting special counsel, said yesterday.

Instruction at the training school to start about August 1 will include courses in first aid, courtesy, traffic regulation and elementary criminal and traffic law, he said.

Applicants for appointment to the patrol also will have opportunity for immediate advancement during the training school, Sutton said.

TRAFFIC DEATHS CLIMB TO 27 HERE

Negro Pedestrian Hit by Car Last Week Succumbs.

Police yesterday added another figure—number 27—to the Atlanta traffic death column when Grady hospital authorities notified them of the death of a negro pedestrian injured last Friday.

D. C. Dunbar, 49, of Lindsay street, the victim, was knocked down by an automobile driven by Sidney Castleberry, of 1446 Bankhead avenue, police reported. His death was the second resulting from traffic accidents in the city during July.

INSANITY REMARKS TO BRITISH LORDS PRODUCE TUMULT

Earl of Moray Breaks Precedent, Lights Cigaret in High Chamber.

LONDON, July 7.—(P)—The Earl of Moray broke precedent to light a cigarette and threw the sedate house of lords into turmoil tonight by his remarks on insanity as cause for divorce.

"This is a serious matter which concerns your lordships' house from an inheritance point of view rather than..." Lord Moray said in discussion of the insanity clause in the controversial marriage bill, which seeks to make divorces more easy to obtain in England.

Calls of "order" rang through the chamber.

But Lord Moray made three speeches, one of which concluded:

"I hope the leader of the house will forgive me if I now go to put through a personal call to Mr. Gandhi." (Presumably in jest toward the former Indian mahatma.)

Breaks Precedent.

The Earl, who married Barbara Murray, daughter of J. Archibald Murray, of New York, in 1924, then did an unprecedented thing. He lit a cigarette in the house.

Lord Fermanagh took him by the elbow and ushered him from the chamber. Lords forbade local publication of the remarks, under pain of invoking an ancient parliamentary act.

Making his first speech in parliamentary order, Lord Moray took up discussion of an amendment to the proposed marriage bill whereby divorces could not be granted until five years after the marriage.

5-Year Time Limit.

"To get down to brass tacks—by which I mean the amendment on which I am supposed to be speaking—there are only two parts to which I wish to refer," he said. "The first is the time limit of five years."

"It may be true that a thousand ages in the sight of God are as a moment, but that God must be asleep." Then followed his reference to telephoning Gandhi.

By this time, lords had come to grave attention across the house. The Earl was permitted, however, to finish his speech on the amendment.

The Earl intervened twice when Lord Dary De Knayth took up discussion of a proposal to remove insanity from the bill as ground for divorce.

Lords listened in startled amazement when the World War veteran broke in to complete his previously interrupted thought:

"This is a serious matter which concerns your lordships' house more than the house of commons, both from an inheritance point of view and from a religious one."

Snakes Rate First In Scout Trading

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(P)—The "swapping" days are nearing a close at the Scout jamboree but snake prices remained firm today.

Despite a surplus of snakes brought from Florida to exchange for souvenirs from other parts of the world, Scouts said prices won't be reduced. Any snakes left at the close of the jamboree will be turned over to the Smithsonian Institution.

DIPLOMATIC CORPS CHANGES APPROVED

Jefferson Caffery Recommended as New U. S. Ambassador to Brazil.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(P)—The senate foreign relations committee recommended today that Jefferson Caffery, of Louisiana, now ambassador to Cuba, be confirmed as ambassador to Brazil.

It also reported favorably the nomination of J. Butler Wright, of Wyoming, minister to Czechoslovakia, to be ambassador to Cuba in place of Caffery.

Other nominations approved by the committee included:

Wilbur J. Carr, of New York, now assistant secretary of state, to be minister to Czechoslovakia.

George Messersmith, of Delaware, to be assistant secretary of state.

Ray Atherton, of Illinois, now counselor of the London embassy, to be minister to Bulgaria.

Hugh S. Gibson, of California, now ambassador to Brazil, to be ambassador to Belgium and minister to Luxembourg.

Ferdinand L. Mayer, of Indiana, counselor at the Berlin embassy, to be minister to Haiti.

Grenville T. Emmett, of New York, now minister to the Netherlands, to be minister to Austria.

William E. Chapman, of Oklahoma, to be secretary of the diplomatic service.

MILE-HIGH CRASH KILLS TWO PILOTS

Navy Planes Collide, Flame to Ground.

PENSACOLA, Fla., July 7.—(P)—A mile-high crash between two navy airplanes brought flaming death today to their pilots.

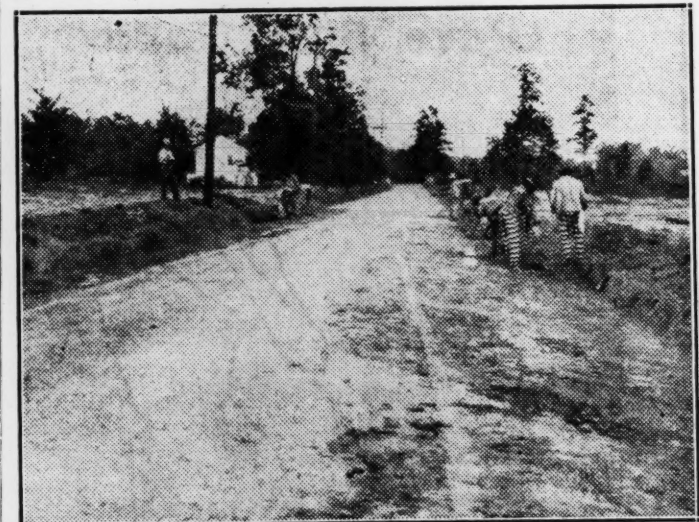

J. A. McMann, flying cadet of the United States naval reserve, and W. F. Mershon, marine corps cadet, were killed as their blazing planes spun swiftly to earth.

Fire broke out immediately. The collision took place near the naval air station but the planes struck the ground in a wild section several miles away.

Women Ask New Road—Convicts Repair Old

While Mrs. H. K. Evans, of 2043 North Side drive, left, and Mrs. Lillie M. Jones, of 2080 North Side drive, were appealing yesterday to the Fulton county commissioners to repave the dangerous "turtle-back" Collier road—

County officials had convicts patching up the larger breaks in Collier road's worn-out paving. Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Jones headed a delegation before the county commission. Commissioners told them to "come back next September." They plan paving of other roads before repaving Collier, they said.

COUNTY APPROVES ZONING PETITIONS

petitions for residential zoning were granted as prayed.

Owners of many of the most beautiful residences in the section north of Atlanta signed the petitions asking the county commission to zone the roads for residences only, thus shutting off possibility of stores and filling stations being erected in their sections in the future.

Efforts of North Side residents to improve the section came from residents of Collier road yesterday also, as the county commissioners held their July meeting.

Repaving Asked.

A plea for the county to repave Collier road was voiced by Mrs. Lillie M. Jones and E. J. Jones, both of 2080 North Side drive, and Mrs. H. K. Evans, of 2043 North Side drive. They headed a delegation.

Pointing out that Collier road now has a "turtle back" type of paving which is rough and ragged through years of wear, the Joneses told the commissioners many automobile accidents occur on Collier road.

"If you pour a bucket of water on Collier road it becomes a traffic hazard," Jones said.

Request Refused.

Commissioner George F. Longino, chairman of the public works committee, which supervises road construction work, told the Collier road delegation that "we have many roads in Fulton which must be paved before we can repave Collier road." He asked the delegation to come back before the commission in September, promising every effort to secure the repaving if it is possible.

About 25 persons residing in Cook's district around Howell Mill road appealed to the commissioners to aid them in procuring a playground for their children.

To Inspect Locations.

Chairman J. A. Ragsdale and other commissioners agreed to inspect possible locations for such a playground on July 20.

"We have got to have a playground so we can take our boys and girls off the street," said a spokesman for the group. "A playground will remove our children from the hazards of street traffic and will reduce the number who have to go before the juvenile courts."

The commissioners announced that they will follow the recommendations of the county police department in granting beer and wine licenses and licenses for operating dance halls. A number of applications were to be studied by the police.

Approval of a $25,000 appropriation to cover July relief and social security benefits was formally made by the commission. It will be turned over to the Fulton County Board of Public Welfare.

115-YEAR-OLD EX-SLAVE PASSES AT HOME HERE

Aunt Ellen Gilbert, 115-year-old former negro slave of the Wilson family of Fairburn road, died Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Bertha Holliday, of Herrin road.

The aged negro woman had served in the family of Judge William A. Wilson from the time of her birth, and was with them during the War Between the States. When Sherman took Atlanta she accompanied the family to Covington.

After the war she continued serving the Wilsons until she was forced to end active work because of her advanced years.

Final rites were conducted yesterday at the Bethlehem Methodist church near Adamsville.

TRIAL NEAR FOR CHIEF.

MIAMI, Fla., July 7.—(P)—Prosecution and defense were ready tonight for the trial of John B. Rowland, suspended police chief, before the city commission tomorrow on charges of impairing morale of the police department.

LIBERAL MARRIAGE CANON IS SOUGHT

Episcopal Commission Would Authorize Rewedding of Divorced Persons.

NEW YORK, July 7.—(P)—The commission on marriage and divorce of the Episcopal Church proposed today liberalization of church law to permit its bishops to authorize the remarriage of divorced persons.

The commission urged substitution, for existing marriage laws patterned after strict regulations of the Church of England, of legislation which recognized the right of "any person whose former marriage has been dissolved for any cause" to remarry.

Its proposed addition to the Episcopal canon on marriage would allow divorced persons to apply after the expiration of one year from the granting of divorce to the "bishop of his or her diocese for permission to marry," and would allow the bishops to permit such marriages "if, in equity and good conscience, he shall choose to do so."

The Rt. Rev. Herman Page, bishop of Michigan, will present the commission's proposal to the general convention of the church, which convenes in Cincinnati next October 6.

Episcopal leaders here predicted considerable support for the movement to broaden the church laws on marriage, particularly from the dioceses of Michigan and Missouri, which have already taken stands favoring the easing of restrictions against remarriage.

Present laws of the Episcopal Church require that no minister shall "solemnize the marriage of any person who has been or is the husband or the wife of any other persons then living, from whom he or she has been divorced for any cause arising after marriage..." but this canon shall not be held to apply to the innocent party in a divorce for adultery.

The commission's proposed legislation, said:

"Any person whose former marriage has been dissolved for any cause by a civil court may after the expiration of one year from the granting of the divorce apply to the bishop of his or her diocese for permission to marry another person; and nothing in this canon shall deprive the bishop of his ecclesiastical power to permit such remarriage if, in equity and good conscience, he shall choose so to do."

"However, before such permission is granted by the bishop he shall take legal, and, if necessary, other advice, including that of the clergyman of the parish of which the applicant is a member. He shall also inquire into the character and personality of the parties to the proposed and previous marriage, and must determine whether the spiritual welfare of the parties thereto, and of society, will be served by the proposed marriage."

BOLT KILLS GEORGIAN ON ROAD NEAR TOCCOA

TOCCOA, Ga., July 7.—John Bramlett, about 25, a farmer living near Toccoa, was killed by lightning this afternoon while walking along the Atlanta highway about four miles southwest of Toccoa. His clothes were badly burned and the concrete highway was considerably damaged.

He lived with his father, Andrew Bramlett, besides whom he is survived by his mother, and several brothers and sisters.

LUTHER LEAGUE PLANS ON MEDICAL CENTER

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, July 7.—(P)—The Luther League of America unanimously adopted tonight a $10,000 missionary project calling for construction of a medical center in the Virginia mountains as a part of the church extension program of the board of home missions of the United Lutheran Church in America.

AN ATLANTA WOMAN SIPS TEA WITH A TRAMP IN LONDON

Says Mrs. Louise Stuart Wallace: "In St. James Park this afternoon I had tea with a tramp. When the Big Ben struck four I went to a tea house and bought a cup of tea—on the other end of the bench by the lake sat a man who, from all appearances, was a tramp, but a decent blighter, for all that. I invited him to have a cup of tea—"

THOMAS JORDON DARED THE CHAIR TO SAVE HIS SWEETHEART'S NAME

Even when she turned against him, the man in this amazing episode related by EUGENE WARNER, refused to talk. It took a President's order to save him.

Fifth Congressional District (Fulton, DeKalb and Rockdale Counties)

The new Supreme Court bill is as vicious as the first, for the reason that to the same extent it surrenders the principle of judicial independence and impartiality. One controlled judge pollutes a court as effectually as six.

By the present so-called "compromise," the Administration is in the position of saying:

"The purpose of the first plan proposed was to befool and degrade the Supreme Court of the United States as much as we could. But the plan was opposed and had to be abandoned. Now we offer a compromise. We still intend to befool and degrade the Court, but we do not intend to befool and degrade it to the same extent. What we propose now is to befool and degrade it just a little."

"By the first bill it was the plan to deal six mortal stabs at the honor and integrity of the Court all at once. Now, because of opposition, we propose a compromise and have modified the plan. What we propose now is to deal just one mortal stab at the rate of one a year."

Senator Richard B. Russell, Jr., of Georgia, is one of the members of the Senate who has not yet declared himself and whose vote on this question is in doubt. Those who are interested in averting a calamity; those who wish to see this poisonous question settled once and for all should telegraph, write, and use whatever influence they have to induce Senator Russell to oppose and vote against the "compromise" bill. ## HOME FOR CHILDREN IN ATLANTA ISSUED FIRST NEW LICENSE

Southern Christian Institution Meets Requirements of State Department.

The Southern Christian Home for Children, at 1011 Cleburne avenue, N. E., yesterday was issued the first license to operate an institution for children in Georgia at a formal ceremony. Lamar Murdaugh, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, delivered the license as a part of the state program for aiding dependent children.

The Atlanta institution, under the direction of Miss Sue Steiner Hook, superintendent, was one of the first institutions in Georgia to file a formal application for a license.

State Requirements.
It met the standards promulgated by the state department, which among other things include:

"One staff member to every 12 or 15 children; a superintendent trained in child welfare work; all staff members trained and in sympathy with child welfare service; approval of admissions by the superintendent after a thorough investigation as to the need for institutional services; dismissal of children according to their ability to make their own way and not because of physical or age requirements; one shower or tub and one toilet for each group of 12 children; staff members and children to be served food of the same quality; placing of emphasis on preservation of family groups by not segregating boys and girls in dining rooms."

Licensed for Year.
The license which Director Murdaugh issued yesterday is effective for one year from July 6, subject to revocation by the State Welfare Department.

Organized in 1906 as a regional home for needy and dependent children, the Southern Christian Home for Children has been operated since that time, supported by Christian churches in the southern states. It cares for an average of 42 children ranging in age from four to 16 years. At present it has 24-19 boys and five girls.

Others Being Investigated.
The children's division of the State Welfare Department will issue licenses as it completes in-

Cone Vetoes Excuse Favored by Parkers

Any excuse is better than "I didn't see that 'No Parking' sign," Recorder John L. Cone warned motorists yesterday.

Blaming a traffic violation on bad eyes makes the judge very, very angry, he told a crowded courtroom.

"I'm sorry for anyone who can't afford to have his glasses exchanged," Judge Cone said, "but I have no sympathy at all for any person with good eyes who can't see a sign as big as a wash tub."

Investigations as to compliance of various similar organizations with minimum standards set out by the department.

Officers of the home are A. R. Mayfield, president; Mrs. F. L. Eyles Sr., first vice president; Dan B. Stephens, second vice president; Mrs. H. A. Watts, secretary; Miss Maggie R. Jackson, treasurer; Miss Hook, superintendent, and J. L. Carman, Mrs. R. E. Cothran, J. C. Lane, Roy Pope and Mrs. F. J. Sprattling, all of whom are members of the board of directors.

The building it now occupies is a modern fireproof structure completed in 1929.

Neighbors Hail Boy Helping Nab Burglar Suspect

Fifteen-year-old Benny Steinberg, of 501 Pryor street, was hailed as a hero by neighbors yesterday and advised to join the detective service.

The youth was directly responsible for Marcellus Moore, 30, negro, being in jail charged with suspicion of attempted burglary.

Early yesterday morning, Benny was awakened by unusual noises. Looking out his bedroom window, he saw someone at the rear door of the Silverman's Pharmacy, a few doors down the street. The boy slipped out of the house, went across the street to the funeral home of J. Austin Dillon and called police.

Officers arrived in time to catch Marcellus attempting to enter the rear door of the store by removing the glass. Benny smiled happily and returned to bed amid praises.

Police yesterday also reported the arrest of J. B. Reynolds, 18-year-old negro, who attempted to rob a store at 474 Boulevard, N. E. The arrest was made by Officers J. W. Massey and C. P. Wright, who were called to the scene by a man giving his name as Henry G. Hodgson, of 468 Boulevard, N. E.

CHRISTIAN YOUTH TO HEAR EXPLORER

Georgia Well Represented at Endeavor Rally.

Admiral Richard E. Byrd will deliver the opening address to the International Convention of the Christian Endeavor in Grand Rapids, Mich., attended by several Atlantans and Georgians, over a national radio hook-up at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Registering 152 per cent of their official delegates, the Georgia delegation, headed by Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Jackson, of Atlanta, won second place in the parade Saturday afternoon. As state president Mr. Jackson will be King Cotton in the special Georgia float. Mrs. Jackson will be Queen Cotton. Other Atlanta and state delegates are:

Mrs. Frances E. Kreeger and Mrs. J. J. Kreeger, Central Presbyterian church; Miss Marion Hill, Grant Park Christian church; David Mell, Glenn Memorial church, Emory University; George H. Wilson, southeastern field representative; T. Shep. Clark, of Augusta, and Clyde Underhill, of Savannah.

FINAL RITES TODAY FOR WELDON LEA SALA

Funeral services for Weldon Lea Sala, 31-year-old Atlanta attorney, of 51 Woodcrest avenue, N. W., who died at a private hospital Tuesday, will be held at 11:30 today at Spring Hill. Dr. W. V. Gardner will conduct the services, and burial will be at West View cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Sala are his wife; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Sala, of Atlanta; a sister, Mrs. Harry E. Brown, of Atlanta; a brother, Robert L. Sala, of Atlanta, and an aunt, Mrs. L. M. Becker, of Los Angeles, Cal.

KOPALD-QUINN TRIAL CONTINUES DRAGGING

Possibility of speeding the Kopal, Quinn & Company mail fraud trial appeared remote late yesterday when the government said evidence brought out in the day's hearing pointed to the need of a few more witnesses.

Efforts to speed up the trial were introduced at the morning hearing by Judge Underwood, who said too much time was being spent in arguments by counsel.

City Fireworks Urged To Ease Proposed Ban

Free fireworks displays under the supervision of pyrotechnical experts will be sponsored by Alderman Roy E. Callaway if council adopts his proposed ordinance prohibiting the sale and discharge of fireworks anywhere in the city limits, he announced yesterday.

A public hearing is to be held July 15 by the ordinance committee on the fireworks ban. Callaway said he would seek to have the parks department in charge of free fireworks displays in the public parks on July 4 and New Year's Eve, if the city-wide ban is voted.

"We want the children and the grownups too to have their fun but it is much safer to have the displays under the supervision of an expert," he said.

GEORGIA TAX REVISION

Senator Guy Jackson, of Cochran, chairman of the legislative committee studying proposed changes in Georgia's archaic tax system, has stated that the purpose of his group is not to increase the total state tax burden, but to reform it into an equitable system based, as far as possible, on "ability to pay."

Senator Jackson's statement was made after he and his committee returned from an investigatory tour of other states, studying the tax methods in force.

The broad program outlined will meet with the general approval of all Georgians. An equitable, well-rounded and fair method of levying sufficient taxes to provide the income needed to carry on the services of the state government and its branches is the goal set.

Before attempting to draft the necessary legislation the committee should devote special study to the taxes of those states which, in recent years, have induced many Georgians, excellent citizens, to move their official residence out of this state. These moves have been made, in practically all cases, not because of any disloyalty to Georgia, but because primary economic intelligence dictated the wisdom of the change.

It must be remembered, in drafting tax reform legislation, that Georgia is, in the last analysis, in competition with other states, particularly those of the south Atlantic section. The tax system evolved must not only be fair to all citizens, it must be of a character to induce present capital and industrial investments to remain in the state and to bring back much of that which has, temporarily, it is hoped, been removed.

Faced with Georgia's ancient and unfair tax system, particularly in reference to intangibles, numerous well-to-do citizens have found it necessary to change their place of residence to other states. They were actuated neither by disloyalty to their native state nor by any desire to avoid bearing their fair share of the tax load. It was the fear of practical confiscation, possible under Georgia law, which impelled them regretfully to move away.

The states which attracted the majority of these expatriated Georgians should be the particular study of the Jackson committee, in order to discover those features of taxation which have attracted Georgia capital.

Thus, in seeking an equitable basis for state taxes, the committee and the legislature must not only strive to equalize the load, but must remove that menace to capital which has caused a heavy drain upon the state in the past. No one desires, least of all those Georgians who have been compelled by simple economic wisdom to move away, to escape a fair share of the tax burden. But if the drift of capital to other states continues, every citizen of the state, rich or poor, investor or worker, city dweller or farmer, will be called on to carry a heavier tax load.

Georgia must stop this drain upon her assets. More, the state must open the door and write a welcome that will bring back those who have already moved away. There must no longer be a handicap in the state's competition with other states for investments, industry and capital.

To place Georgia on a tax parity with other states of the southeast in this competition for investments and individual wealth, Senator Jackson's committee cannot do better than study the tax systems of those states which have lured the majority of those who have fled from Georgia's present archaic and unfair tax structure.

ALICE IN BLUNDERLAND

Lewis Carroll, in all the fantasies he conjured for his immortal Alice in her journeys Through the Looking Glass and in Wonderland, surely never imagined anything more bizarre than some of the events of recent days in connection with the Works Progress Administration.

In New York was presented the spectacle of workers employed, theoretically at least, on an emergency job to tide them over until they could re-enter private industry, going on strike and being paid by the very government they opposed, while they were striking.

Twelve thousand staged a parade under banners which read, "Don't Tread on Me," in protest against the discharge of some of their number resulting from the necessary tightening of government purse strings.

There has been, in some instances of federal "work relief," boondoggling. There has been a suspicion that relief has been continued beyond the emergency which it was created to meet.

But surely, in all the oddities of these strange days, there has been nothing more fantastic than relief workers striking against the employment extended to them as a life-saver in emergency, and continuing to be paid for their time while they stage their strike.

THE BUDGET MUST BE BALANCED

The announcement by President Roosevelt that he has called on the various government departments to aid in balancing the national budget by impounding 10 per cent of their newly appropriated funds will be welcomed both by business and the public.

Under this plan it is estimated that $400,000,000 can be saved, with consequent balancing of the budget, the essential first step toward that national stability which must be achieved before business fully recovers the confidence needed if the nation is to continue its progress toward the new prosperity.

It is to be hoped that the President will not only suggest the 10 per cent reduction, but will see to it that it is done.

That such a reduction can be made without injury to the essentials of national government service is self-evident. Practically every bureau can, by efficient operation and the elimination of nonessential activities, make such a reduction. Other bureaus can be abolished without serious loss to the well-being of the public.

Leading economists have emphasized that the weakness in the present prosperity lies in the fact it is primarily the result of government spending. It is thus based upon a foundation necessarily of temporary character, for government expenditures cannot, under any conceivable program, continue indefinitely at the rate of recent years.

True business growth must be established upon the rock of investment confidence. A confidence that invites expansion, thus leading all interests, financial, industrial, commercial and labor, to a firm position of steadily growing success.

This confidence by capital and by business cannot hope to develop without a national financial program of conservative prosperity.

The first step, therefore, toward bringing about this needed confidence is the balancing of the national budget.

The next step, equally essential, must be a further curtailment in federal expense sufficient not only to balance outgo with income, but to provide a surplus for the reduction of the national debt.

A steady shrinkage in government expenses with a parallel shrinkage in the total public debt will bring renewed confidence and assure the assumption by private business of that requisite expansion which will mean a permanent and growing prosperity for the entire nation.

The proposed saving of $400,000,000 this year offers the logical way to the first step in the program. The second step should follow immediately.

THEY MUST BE "THE FINEST"

Rejection of 27 out of the first 100 applicants for places in the Georgia highway patrol is encouraging indication that the new state police force will be composed of the finest available personnel.

Major John C. Carter, acting director, is requiring that every man accepted for the force meet rigid requirements, both physical and mental, before he is placed in training. The 27 rejected out of the first 100 applicants called were unacceptable because of physical lack. Their failure to meet the age, height or weight specifications should have restrained them from applying in the first place, but now that they have been turned back it may serve good purpose of warning other applicants that they cannot hope for consideration if they do not qualify physically.

The remaining 73 will undoubtedly be further reduced when the results of the mental tests are announced. Those remaining will then begin an intensive course of specialized training, with the probability of a further weeding out as undesirable traits of character are uncovered.

The men who finally qualify in all respects will provide a force that should perform their duties in a way to make Georgia proud of her highway patrol.

The care being exercised by Major Carter and his associates in selecting members of the force augurs well for its successful operation in the future. For the success of a police force depends, preponderantly, upon the personnel of which it is created. Each man has his share in the efficiency and public approval of the entire group. When he wears the uniform he becomes the exemplar of the entire body. To the autoist he contacts he represents the force as a whole and the impression visitors to the state will carry away from Georgia will depend, in large degree, upon the character and personality of the state police they meet.

The creation of the state highway patrol may prove one of the most beneficial actions ever taken by the state legislature. Or it may prove a handicap to the good repute of the state.

Which shall be the outcome depends, more than anything else, upon the personnel of the finally organized force. Major Carter is wisely taking the position that any delay caused by care in selecting his men is well worth while if it results in improvement of the finally selected personnel.

In Hollywood cafes late at night, a scenarist says he has worked out many a hit that proved a washout in the morning. In fact, not worth the tablecloth it was written.

Behind Washington Headlines

By H. R. BAUKHAGE.

OBsolete SHIPS WASHINGTON, July 7.—When Skipper Kennedy, of the Maritime Commission, opens bids Thursday for 28 obsolete ships rusting on their hawes, he will end, temporarily at least, one of the most tangled of legislative wrangles.

It was the scrap over "scraps." By virtue of Mr. Kennedy's action, the government itself has decided that it's all right to sell our junked metal to foreigners as well as Americans.

This does not mean, however, that the question isn't still alive. In fact, there is still plenty of pressure to keep this natural resource at home, but bills to stop the exportation of steel and iron scrap, fought over by powerful lobbies, are now slumbering in committee.

These measures have as strange a combination of bedfellows for sponsors as one meets in many a political moon.

For stopping exportation are the army and navy, "in the interest of national defense." Hand in hand and side by side are the pacifists, but for a different reason—of course, stopping armament abroad. And right in step with this remarkable partnership are the steel companies, cheering both the other two, but with a reason of their own.

THE SCRAP MARKET

They won't admit it, but what the steel manufacturers are really interested in is controlling the scrap market, since scrap is the one essential to steel making which the industry doesn't control now.

Opposed to limiting exportation are aligned the united millionaires junkmen of the nation.

Senator Schwellenbach, Democrat, of Washington, introduced the first bill to forbid the exportation of steel-plate scrap except upon a special license issued by the President. But suddenly (another paradox) he dropped it into the lap of Senator Austin, Republican, of Vermont, who fingered it very lightly, not sure, apparently, whether it was a butterfly or a hornet.

Not so the sponsor in the house, Representative Koppelman, of Connecticut. He's still for it, slightly altered, thinks Secretary of State Hull and the President look upon it kindly. But for the moment he, too, is allowing it to slumber.

Meanwhile, the energetic Mr. Kennedy, hired to get things done, has put the government on record against the measure by selling his ships for scrapping to anybody who has the money.

JUNKMEN'S BIGGEST GUN

The seeming hopelessness for scrap legislation at this session is making it unnecessary for the junkmen to unlimber their biggest gun against export restrictions. They have been threatening to hurl "monopoly" at the sponsors. They charge that the steel companies want to kill the foreign market for scrap so as to be able to put junkmen, big and little, in the same class as the "captive" coal and iron mines.

MINNESOTANS SPLIT

Certain members of the Farmer-Labor party had a terrible shock the other day when they caught a peculiar look on the smiling face of smiling Jim Farley. They reported back in consternation that the genial postmaster general looked exactly like a cat that had swallowed a gopher.

And the gopher, they fear, is 50 per cent of their party vote in the senate, personified in what they fear is the weak flesh of Senator Lundeen.

It's all about a federal judgeship in Minnesota. The two leading candidates are Judge Vince Day, favored secretary of the late Governor Floyd B. Olson, who put him on the state bench.

The other is George Sullivan, a Democrat, present United States district attorney in St. Paul.

While Judge Day has the solid backing of the Minnesota Farmer-Labor delegation in the house of representatives, all efforts to get Minnesota's Farmer-Labor senators, Lundeen and Shipstead, to declare themselves in favor of Day have failed.

What made the Minnesotans particularly suspicious was the way Senator Lundeen acted when, they say, he was almost forced to present Judge Day to the attorney general. Mr. Lundeen's enthusiasm, disappointed witnesses testify, was a masterpiece of restraint.

Sensor Shipstead, it is feared by fearful Farmer-Laborites, while favoring a party candidate, cannot be counted on to help either, in case Democrat Sullivan is allowed to shoulder Governor Olson's protegee out of the way.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Aren't you glad,
When thunder rolls,
And lightning's flash
Affrights your souls,
That you don't live
In Spain, today,
Where noise may mean
The bombs that slay?

Training Babies

As Cannon Fodder.

Perhaps it isn't so strange as we in America are wont to consider it, the spirit of war that seems to animate the general public sentiment in some countries. For, after all, when they take the babies still warm from the cradle and teach 'em the rudiments of soldiering, and instill in them the worship of the military man, it isn't surprising that those infants grow up to be men who never dream the rifle and the trench bomb are not the natural implements of manhood.

Take Italy, for example. There is an organization there known as the Balilla, nearly a half million strong, with its membership confined exclusively to boys less than eight years of age. They are being trained in soldiering so that they will acquire the proper spirit, as well as the rudiments of drill and marching and rifle shooting, by the time they are 15 years of age when they become eligible for the regular army.

They all have to serve, too, you know. Military service is compulsory in Italy and, in case of emergency, every male between 15 and 70 years of age may be called to the colors.

Then, There Is Japan.

In Japan, of course, youth is taught that death in battle is one of the greatest privileges that may come to a loyal citizen of the empire. A most fortunate circumstance, in fact. They, too, have their organizations of mere baby soldiers. Not little ones playing soldiers, you know, but toddlers carrying real, even though small, guns, and clad in soldier uniforms, standing at attention and crying in unison "Banzai" whenever the Emperor passes or whenever opportunity provides excuse.

Such childhood activities are a far cry from the wise and reasonable training given older boys in America and in England, in the reserve officer corps of many of the schools. The democracies follow the course of plain common sense, just as the autocrats follow their son to use his fists, if he has to, but to avoid physical conflict if he can, with honor.

There is a vast difference between the two systems. The one prepares entire generations of babyhood to be the human fodder of future wars. The other teaches coming youth the rudiments of self-defense, to give them and the nation a chance if aggressors from the outside imperil her in the future.

Obliging Fellows,

These Auto Salesmen.

I won't divulge the identity of the auto sales establishment where the following look place, because the fellows there have their faces red enough as it is, without rubbing it in too publicly. But the story is true.

A nice old lady came in one day and said she wanted to buy a couple of good cars for cash. She looked around the display room, listened to the sales talk and tentatively selected a sedan, the most expensive model they had, and a somewhat lower cost coupe. Said she lived in Texas, owned all sorts of property, bank accounts, etc., and was in Atlanta visiting a cousin. Wanted the big car for herself and the smaller one as a present to her cousin.

Said she'd like to show the car to the cousin before buying, so the obliging salesman drove her out to the residence. She didn't definitely close the deal that day.

However, she came back the following day, talked some more and then got the salesman to drive her to Kirkwood, where she wanted to visit a friend. And so on. A call at the auto salesrooms every day for a week, and a resultant trip to some place or other she wished to go. One day she borrowed 35 cents from a salesman, saying she was out of small change at the moment, and two days later made another touch, this time for $2.

Then she explained her Georgia money was in the form of a savings account in a bank in a south Georgia city. Suggested if they'd drive her there and back she'd draw out the money and pay for the cars. So, they did.

She told them on the way back she had the money in the form of a check which she'd have to cash the following day. Then she'd be in to take the cars.

That is some time ago. They haven't seen the nice old lady since. They are out $2.35 in money she borrowed and probably $10 worth of gasoline, totting her around town and to south Georgia and back. Aren't these auto salesmen obliging souls, though?

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Monday, July 8, 1912:

"New York, July 7.—A call to the people of the United States who are in sympathy with the 'national progressive movement' to send delegates to a national convention to open in Chicago August 5 was given out this afternoon by United States Senator Joseph M. Dixon, of Montana, Theodore Roosevelt's campaign manager."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Friday, July 8, 1887:

"The Baltimore American says that twenty-two divorces were granted in Atlanta in one day. We protest against such gross misrepresentation. There were only twenty."

Rubber Pioneer.

One hundred years ago patent No. 240 was issued Charles Goodyear, then 37, for a method of destroying the adhesive properties of rubber by superficial application of nitric acid with copper, bismuth, or other chemicals. This was the first important patent obtained by the man who founded the world's great rubber industry. At the time he was known as "the Indian rubber maniac," because it was not believed rubber had any practical use. Before Goodyear died, rubber was being used in 300 ways, but he died penniless!

General Johnson A White Mule in a Graveyard

Is a Ghost If You Believe in Ghosts

By ROBERT QUILLLEN.

A Scotch physician of some renown 50 years ago told the story of a cruel experiment by which a colleague, far ahead of his times, demonstrated the power of the mind over the body.

The two men were driving through the country when they saw a plowman near the highway and stopped to question him.

Having introduced himself, the experimenter pretended to be startled by the yokel's appearance and soon convinced him that he showed unmistakable symptoms of sic semper tyrannis, which invariably proved fatal.

The terrified moron went home to his bed and was dead within 24 hours.

The mind's control of the body is now commonly conceded, but many people yet fail to realize how much their own lives are affected by their thoughts. It still remains true, as in Bible times, that the wicked flee when no man pursueth. We believe what we wish to believe, and the thing we expect is the thing that seems true. The guilty man expects to be pursued and therefore flees in the frantic belief that pursuit follows.

The "imaginary" ailments of the neurotic are as real as any others. He thinks about himself, in ever-growing anxiety, till every slight discomfort seems the symptom of some fatal malady. And his sickness is real; for we are aware of pain only when our minds tell us about it, and if his mind is convinced that his stomach aches, aches, aches it does though it be the healthiest organ in town.

If something happens to make you doubt your popularity, and you walk downtown looking up for evidence of dislike, every person you meet will seem unfriendly and every greeting will seem a snub. Those who are most genial will seem most hypocritical.

If you accept some gossip's tale that people are talking about you and your sins, every eye you meet will seem suspicious; every window blind will seem to conceal a watcher; friendly smiles will seem amused leers; the whole world will seem to be staring and whispering.

If life is a misery, thinking makes it so. And by the same token, cheerfully and independently thinking that you are good enough for all practical purposes, that sensible people realize it, and, further, that you don't give a blessed darn what the others think, makes the world a pleasant place and humankind a pretty decent sort.

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

The Race and the Coat.

NEW YORK—I have just been reading a book by that name. The author is an Englishman, Francis W. Hirst, an expert on armaments if ever there was one. It is nothing less than a nightmare which Mr. Hirst succeeds in analyzing. The actual details in the case of Germany and Italy cannot be precisely computed. But the author uses all the available sources of information with great care and a masterly gift of extracting the essence. He gives every fact that needs to be known for a general understanding of a terrifying phase of contemporary civilization. What Mr. Hirst is peculiarly qualified to give is the economic and financial implications of the present race in armaments.

The really crazy element is that madness is the economic and financial background. National solvency in nearly every principle country concerned is almost as much a thing of the past as national honesty in finance. The whole world is in a state of chaos in every sense. The present burden of armament expenditure would have appeared monstrous even in the prosperous half-century that preceded the last great war. In the present circumstances of almost universal bankruptcy the spectacle is almost too crazy to be believed.

Yet the very rottenness of the general circumstances may prove to be a blessing in disguise by producing the inevitable national catastrophe before the actual destruction of human life can begin. This is how Mr. Hirst puts the point: One of the questions which every intelligent reader of this book at home and abroad must ask is: "How much longer can Russia, Italy, Germany and France—to say nothing of Poland and several smaller states on the continent—stand the racket of this armament race? Rising prices, shortages of food and raw materials, embarrassing exchange restrictions, costly subsidies, impoverished quotas, high tariffs, precarious currencies, stupendous deficits and the inability of governments to borrow at reasonable rates of interest or to discharge their financial obligations, all point to a crash in the near future."

Humanity Is Trapped.

And yet, if there was a sudden halt to the armament race, that is to say if Germany threw five million workers now engaged in the manufacture of war material suddenly out of work, there would be a fantastic crash, also. The armament race, which leads inevitably to a destruction of millions of human lives, is the sole condition of the present relative and precarious prosperity all over the world. Humanity is in a terrible trap.

For the rest Mr. Hirst's book is crammed on every page with concise information that will make every reader open his eyes wide. Last year the world spent on armaments, according to a reliable estimate, twice as much as it spent in 1929. And nearly four times as much in the last year before the great war. The unimaginable figure of last year's expenditure was fifty billion dollars ($15,000,000,000).

Mr. Hirst will not relieve his readers of their forebodings, unless it be counted a comfort that civilization may crush itself by what Mr. Neville Chamberlain has called "its incredible folly" (in spite of the fact that he is the father of Britain's new gigantic armament campaign) before the war itself can start. But he at any rate gives all the facts and wastes no time.

Talmudic Tales

Questions I've Been Asked

What is the meaning of "Shalom?"

It is a Hebrew word meaning "peace."

Who was the last president of the Great Sanhedrin?

Rabban Gamaliel, grandson of Hillel was the last president of the Sanhedrin while it sat at Jerusalem.

What is the meaning of "Shechinah?"

It means "The Divine Presence."

Is it true that the Bible was originally written in Hebrew?

Yes. The Christians refer to the Old Testament, or the Jewish Bible, was originally written in Hebrew, but Greek was the language in which the New Testament originally was written.

Is Enoch a Hebrew name?

Yes. It means "dedicated" or "consecrated."

What is an Jacob?

A collection of Agadic portions of the Babylonian Talmud by Rabbi Jacob in Chabib in the sixteenth century.

What is the meaning of Dayan?

A judge of the Beth Din. One of three rabbis who decided cases of Jewish law.

An Odd Habit.

Leonardo da Vinci, whom you know was one of the two or three greatest artists of all time, was left-handed and had a mental quirk that caused him to write everything backwards.

Test Your Knowledge

Can you answer seven of these test questions? Turn to want ad pages for the answers.

1. Where is the island of Luzon?

2. Who wrote "White Company?"

3. What is a pyrometer?

4. Name the play that was being performed in Ford's theater, Washington, D. C., when Lincoln was assassinated.

5. What is the Jungfrau?

6. Is the Arabian gallon different from the United States gallon?

7. Who was Richard Farrant?

8. What is a clarinet?

9. Which is the longest state in the Union?

10. Is Africa mentioned by name in the Bible?

A CAREER SERVICE FOR UNITED STATES

Editor Constitution: Several months ago the Brownlow committee recommended that government service be made more attractive to men and women of brains and energy, called to Washington by the challenge of the 1933 crises. The committee finds many are leaving because the government fails to offer them careers with enough security and freedom. Higher salaries would help, but more important is the making over of our entire public service into something like England has built up—a career service free from spoilsman's pressure, founded on merit, and offering lifetime vocations of the highest honor and dignity.

Career men realize about all they can do for democracy is to pray until the congress reclaims its original constitutional powers, taken from them by the supreme court in 1857.

JAMES A. CRAWFORD,

PRaises CONSTITUTION FOR COURT STAND

Editor Constitution: I extend my congratulations upon your editorial in The Constitution of July 4 on "Expediency, Not Sound Reform," dealing with the newest effort of the national administration to "pack" the supreme court. Your analysis of the purpose of those behind this attempt is correct and your argument in opposition is sound. Statesmanship during this period of unrest through which the world and the nation are passing would seem to demand a preservation of the systems of checks and balances in our government. It should be received from our leaders efforts to ally and not arouse class strife and prejudices; and to strengthen and not weaken any tribunal of our governmental structure which seeks to preserve a respect for law and order or the constitutional system under which we live.

Crucial tests of a country's development is the manner in which it administers justice, and the manner in which it protects the rights of the minorities. Our system of administering justice may be improved and the operation of its machinery made more rapid and efficient. But such measures should not contemplate the destruction of the respect of the masses of the people for the supreme court, simply because some of its decisions are not in accord with the views of the party in power. That the supreme court has been the protector against oppression of the weak when in the minority whether they appear as laborers or capitalists or followers of their sincere religious beliefs, publishers of newspapers or members of any faction or race whom the ruling majority seek to oppress is revealed by its decision. Upon that record, it is entitled to the confidence of the American people.

I am delighted to find that your paper, which has always supported the President, as I have done, points out the error of this proposal.

ROBERT B. TROUTMAN,
Atlanta, Ga., July 6, 1937.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"A body in motion tends to remain in motion; a body at rest tends to remain at rest."

This is the famous "principle of inertia." Applied to human beings, it is another way of saying that laziness is a habit and that enterprise is also a habit. The thought occurs on reading a recent editorial on the south's livestock future by enterprising, thoughtful Editor Edward B. Field, of the Selma Times-Journal. "In the past," he reminds us, "a disinclination to start new activities because of the problems that must be worked out and the knowledge that must be gained has kept the south under the thumb of King Cotton, and the section has suffered severely from the inevitable evils of one principle money crop. If forced to strike out for themselves in new fields of endeavor the farmers will soon learn that the difficulties are not insurmountable, and a grave problem that has harassed this section for many years will be solved."

Amen and amen! The principle of inertia works both ways. A south at rest on a one-crop system has tended to remain at rest—and not there. But a south in motion towards diversification of agricultural activities will tend equally and gloriously to continue and increase that motion. It is the law of life. In particular, it is the law of southerners.

Lazy as the south is supposed in legend to be and often is in fact, there is nothing more energetic in the human family than an energetic southerner when you find one. We have in mind, for examples, the enormous energies of such southerners as Publisher James G. Stahlman, of Nashville Banner, and Jacksonville's Gilchrist B. Stockton, former United States minister to Australia. It is possible to believe that the southerner isn't really lazy at all, that he is merely an exaggerated expression of the principle of inertia, that when he is at rest he tends to remain at rest but that when he is in motion he tends to go like the wind. Let us hope this will be true of him as he begins now to enterprise in the direction of agricultural diversification.

The valuable and important "Blue Book of Southern Progress," published annually by the Manufacturers' Record, is out for 1937. Its value and importance are lessened a little, as usual, by the inclusion of the non-southern states of Missouri, Maryland and West Virginia, as well as the District of Columbia, in its statistical totals for what it calls "the south." To arrive at totals for the actual south one must go through the arithmetic of subtracting the figures for these improperly included states. That they are indeed improperly included ought to be a matter of general agreement by now it seems to us. "The old custom of massing together, for aggregate quantitative effects, a large group of 'southern' states, including Missouri, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia, Texas and the specialized urban District of Columbia, is not only inaccurate but detrimental to genuine regional analysis and planning," declares Dr. Howard Odum in his great work on southern regions.

Dr. Odum has some 200 indices by which he identifies states as belonging to the south. He shows that Maryland qualifies in no more than 20 of these indices, Missouri is only about 40, and Texas and Oklahoma in less than a third of the indices. "The south," as he treats of it, consists of the 11 states of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas.

To this column, which has a sort of habit of speaking of "the south" every now and then, it is important that the south we speak of be understood as Dr. Odum's, not the Blue Book's. Dr. Odum's south, for example, with nearly one-fourth of the nation's population, has only about one-seventh of the nation's wealth, while the Blue Book's has approximately a third of the population and a fourth of the wealth. In other words, Dr. Odum's south is poorer and it is to his credit when we speak of the great new market to be had in lifting southern wealth and income to the national level.

LOS ANGELES YOUTH HELD IN COLLEGE PARK

College Park police were awaiting word from Los Angeles authorities yesterday before turning over Jimmy Truitt, 17, of Los Angeles, and a negro listed as James P. Rose, of Montgomery, to the Atlanta division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

HERMAN BAYNE EVINS LAID TO LAST REST

Funeral services for Herman Bayne Evins, former Atlantan, were held at 3:30 yesterday afternoon at Spring Hill, with Dr. Ashby Jones officiating. Burial was at West View cemetery.

Mr. Evins, who was vice president of the Western Coca-Cola Bottling Company and lived in Winnetka, Ill., died suddenly Monday following a heart attack at a suburban golf course near his home.

'Drowned' Man Says Water Was 'Too Cold'

Though wistfully longing for the freedom of his "spiritual" world, Clifford Poss, who official records show was drowned a year ago, remained very much alive and very secure last night in Fulton tower. He was being held on an abandonment warrant issued by the wife whom he said he had tried to aid by "drowning myself in the Chattahoochee." The water was too cold for suicide, Poss told officers.

Atlantan Listed Among Drowned Recalled From 'Dead' by Warrant

Clifford Poss, Believed for More Than a Year To Have Committed Suicide in Chattahoochee River, Arrested Near Whitesburg; Found Water "Too Cold."

Clifford Poss, who for a year was officially listed as dead, was lodged in Fulton tower last night on charges of abandonment—charges sworn against him by his wife whom he "had tried to help by jumping into the Chattahoochee."

Poss was arrested yesterday afternoon by County Officers A. P. Dodd and Burton Carroll six miles from Whitesburg, where he was working in a sawmill under the name of "Clarence Ayers." The "dead" man disappeared June 21, 1936, after leaving his wife a note saying he was going to drown himself in the Chattahoochee river. Finances were given as the reason, police said.

Police checked the man's moves and found he had taken a street car to the river and had apparently jumped into the water, his clothes being found on the bank. The river was dragged and dynamited for over a week in an effort to recover the body. No trace was found and officials marked Clifford Poss on the records as "dead by drowning."

Last Sunday, Charlie Austin, who lives on Bankhead highway, attended a fish fry and picnic near Whitesburg, saw Poss and called "Hi, Clifford," Dodd said. Poss denied his identity and insisted he was Clarence Ayers, a sawmill hand who worked for $20 per month.

SELF-DEFENSE IS PLEA OF ACCUSED DRUGGIST

CLEVELAND, Miss., July 7.—(AP)—Claude Vance, 40-year-old Shaw, Miss., druggist, charged with the slaying of Night Marshal E. C. Harrington, of Shaw, last month, renewed his fight in chancery court today for release on bail.

Vance took the stand in a habeas corpus proceeding this afternoon to reiterate his claim that he shot in self-defense after Harrington fired first. His daughter, Grace Vance, 18-year-old oped of Louisiana State University, a witness to the quarrel between the two men, also contends her father fired in defense of his own life.

MOTHER, FATHER, SON DIE IN FLAMING CAMP

MARLOW, N. H., July 7.—(AP)—A mother, father and their five-year-old son died today in a fire which swept a lumber camp a mile and one-half from Marlow village. The boy's charred body was found in the ashes several hours after the blaze was extinguished. The father, Earl Hurd, 35, and his wife, Rena, 29, were taken to the community hospital in Keene where they died.

12,000 WILL ATTEND SESSION OF V. F. W.

Three-Day State Encampment Opens in Savannah Sunday.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 7.—Approximately 12,000 members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States will gather here Sunday for their annual three-day state encampment—a gathering to be marked by the presence of at least three representatives of the national body.

Honor guests will include Commander-in-Chief Pat Kearney, of New York; Past Commander-in-Chief Jimmie Van Zandt, of Altoona, Pa., and Jack Skillman, of Miami, area representative for five southeastern states.

At least 300 Atlanta veterans have indicated they will attend. Georgia Department Commander William L. Killroy, of Atlanta, has announced.

Sunday's program will include registration at encampment headquarters, the Savannah hotel, and afternoon boat rides. Mayor Robert M. Fitch, of Savannah, will deliver the address of welcome at the initial encampment session at 10 o'clock Monday at the Shrine Country Club, a shore dinner will be held at 1 o'clock, and the first business session, from 2 to 4 o'clock, will precede a trip to Savannah Beach for swimming and a dance.

Concluding business, election of officers and selection of the 1938 encampment city will mark the final session Tuesday.

SUMNER WELLES URGES NECESSITY OF WORLD PEACE

Courage, Intelligence and Vision Are Needed Now,
Undersecretary Says.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 7.—(AP)—Sumner Welles expressed belief tonight that if nations overseas will undertake to find those political readjustments of inequities that arose after the World War, and in which he emphasized the United States has no part, the American people will overwhelmingly favor co-operation of their government in a broad program of world peace and rehabilitation.

"It is unnecessary to exaggerate, it would be perilous to minimize the urgency of the need for courage, for intelligence, for vision and for a conciliatory spirit on the part of the statesmen of the world at this hour," said Mr. Welles, undersecretary of state, in an address before the University of Virginia's Institute of Public Affairs.

The most immediate danger to the peace of the world, he said, lies in the conflict of "fundamentally antagonistic dogmas which men have evolved since the outbreak of the World War, which have had their genesis in want and misery, in a sense of injustice, social and national, in the belief on the part of peoples that through the realization of these concepts they may attain the remedy for the ills from which they have suffered."

FORMER ATLANTAN, R. D. LE ROY, DIES

Electrical Contractor Succumbs to Long Illness.

Robert D. LeRoy, 69-year-old former Atlantan, of Miami, Fla., died at the home of a friend, L. M. Long, of 485 Jones avenue, N. W., after an illness of six months. Mr. LeRoy was an electrical contractor here before transferring to Miami 12 years ago. He continued in that business there, but had recently retired because of ill health. He was a native of Pennsylvania.

Surviving are his wife and three brothers, Francis, Max and James LeRoy. Final rites will be conducted at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Spring Hill. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Suggested for Post of Treasury Watchdog

Constitution Staff Photo—Slayton.

Councilman E. A. Minor, of the second ward, is shown here yesterday wearing the summer suit he bought for $15 in 1892—45 years ago. The suit is still in good condition and the councilman wears it every summer. Friends suggested Councilman Minor's economic ability would make him an ideal candidate for watchdog of the treasury.

$15 Summer Suit, 45 Years Old, Still Worn by Councilman Minor

Second Ward City Father Says Ensemble Has the Original Buttons; Claims There is Life in the Old Clothes Yet, and Plans Several More Years' Wear.

By FRANK DRAKE.

A suit he bought 45 years ago is being worn this summer by Councilman E. A. Minor, of the second ward. And, unbelievable as it might seem, the suit has the original buttons and has never been ripped or torn.

"I bought this suit for $15 in April of 1892," Councilman Minor said. "I have worn it during July and August for 45 years and it is still good for another year or so."

Devoted Care Revealed. The councilman revealed a story of devoted care he has given the suit, but he does not believe he could buy anywhere today a piece of cloth to compare with the goods in his $15 suit.

"I have had this suit cleaned only five or six times since 1892, and it has never been pressed except when I had it dry cleaned," he said.

"When I take it off, I brush it and fold it very carefully and hang it up in a closet. I never get it dirty and it just doesn't need cleaning and pressing."

He pointed to three or four small breaks in the weaving in the left sleeve, the only holes in the entire suit.

Moth Remedy. "I forgot to take care of it one winter several years ago and some moths started to make a meal out of that sleeve," he explained. "I have had no more trouble with moths since I learned turpentine will kill them."

He wore the 45-year-old suit to

SECOND ORDER ASKED IN JOHNSON DISPUTE

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga., July 7.—A second petition for a restraining order against T. J. Powell, Johnson county ordinary, has been filed here before Judge J. L. Kent, who has set July 17 as the date for hearing.

The petitioners—Clayton Lord, K. P. Powell and R. R. Martin—seek to restrain Ordinary Powell from paying to himself, out of county funds, any sum in excess of his stipulated salary of $75 a month; and seeks further to enjoin further payments to Mrs. L. H. Davis, the ordinary's daughter, as clerk of the court of ordinary. It further asks that Ordinary Powell be restrained from issuing any warrants to himself for expenses in performance of his duties, except with the approval of the judge of the superior court.

Petition cites a law passed in 1909, prohibiting employment by the ordinary of any relative by blood or marriage within the second degree.

POLIO THREAT DELAYS SCHOOL'S GRADUATION

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 7.—(AP)—The city school board closed the Jordan Vocational High school here today after the daughter of a teacher developed symptoms of infantile paralysis.

The school was scheduled to close this week-end. Graduation exercises, set for tomorrow night, were postponed.

T. Hicks Fort, president of the school board, said the board followed advice of the city health officers that the best way to prevent spread of the disease is to isolate the children.

Five paralysis cases—two arrested and three active—have been reported by Dr. W. E. Mayhew, city health officer.

$25,000 BOND IS SET IN AUTO THEFT CASE

Suspect Held in Macon Admits Stealing Two Cars Found With Him.

MACON, Ga., July 7.—(AP)—Federal officers today held a man listed as Charles Muse Jr., under $25,000 bond on two auto theft charges, following his arrest Saturday by Sheriff M. C. Screws, of Baker county.

Reese Watkins, assistant U. S. district attorney, said FBI agents have connected the man with "about 19" auto thefts since his escape from the Daugherty county chain gang in October, 1934.

Present charges are two indictments returned by a federal grand jury at Columbus in September, 1935, agents said. One alleged he took a car in Atlanta and transported it to Florida and back to Whigham, Ga. The other alleged a theft in St. Augustine in which the car was found at Thomasville, Georgia.

Watkins said Muse admitted theft of two cars found in his possession when he was arrested near Newton. They were reported stolen from Montgomery, Ala., and Tallahassee, Fla.

The prison commission in Atlanta said a Charles Muse Jr., who was 22 years old when admitted to prison in 1934, escaped from the Daugherty county gang, in that year. They did not know whether he was the man held here.

VIENNA MAN KILLED IN AUTO-TRUCK CRASH

MACON, Ga., July 7.—(AP)—Carl Hobbs, 23, of Vienna, was killed last night when an automobile in which he was returning home from a trip to Macon, and a melon truck collided 12 miles south of here. It was the eighth fatal automobile accident in Bibb county this year.

Hobbs' death was attributed to a fractured skull. His arm also was broken. He will be buried in Vienna following rites to be held at 11 o'clock. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hobbs, of Dooley county.

B. W. Carr, 23, of Valdosta, riding with Hobbs, said the accident probably was caused by bright approaching lights.

Five Points Site Suggested; Hartsfield Wants City Records Sealed in Vault.

A permanent centennial marker at Five Points was being considered yesterday by Mayor Hartsfield, Wilbur G. Kurtz, chairman of the centennial commission, and Raymond W. Torras, secretary-engineer of the city planning commission.

It was suggested that a small replica of Stone Mountain, carved from Stone Mountain granite, be placed at the famous intersection. Hartsfield said this may not be feasible because such a marker might have to be removed.

GROUP IN SENATE OKAYS REVISION OF PAY-HOUR BILL

Members Silent on Terms of Measure Pending Balloting Today.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(AP)—The senate labor committee completed a drastic revision on the Black-Connery wage and hour bill today but deferred a final vote on the measure until tomorrow.

Members said they agreed not to make public terms of the revised bill until tomorrow's vote. Previously, however, they had disclosed a tentative agreement to strip from the bill much of the broad discretionary power which it would give to a labor standards board.

Fixes Definite Limit. Instead of permitting the board to raise or lower minimum wage and maximum hour standards as it pleases, they said, a definite limitation would be fixed beyond which the board could not go. The revised bill, they said, also would eliminate the board's power to fix "fair" wages and hours in addition to minimum or "non-oppressive" standards.

John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, has opposed the provision for federal fixing of "fair" wages.

No Industry Exempt. The senate committee also agreed tentatively, members reported, that no industrial establishment would be exempt from

Irate Prospector Talks Out of Fine

TUCSON, Ariz., July 7.—(AP)—When a woman accused Jim Abrahams, 74-year-old prospector, of drawing a gun on her during an argument, Abrahams came into court to announce: "No siree! If I'd pulled a gun she wouldn't be here now. There is smoke whenever I draw a gun."

The court believed him and suspended a $50 fine. wage and hour regulation on account of size. Agricultural labor would be exempt, however.

Chairman Norton, Democrat, New Jersey, of the house labor committee announced it would begin consideration of the legislation Monday. It already has participated with the senate committee in public hearings.

maritime workers within his CIO movement.

Announcing the formal campaign, the labor leader estimated that more than 300,000 workers would be enlisted at once in a new "national industrial maritime federation."

The drive was started after Lewis conferred with 26 labor leaders representing 24 maritime unions, some of them affiliated with his adversary, the American Federation of Labor.

An organization committee of seven members, two designated by the Committee for Industrial Organization and the remainder elected by the conference, immediately began to make technical arrangements for a membership drive under the leadership of John Brophy, CIO director.

Widespread Federation. The federation will include all sea-faring, longshore, fisheries, ship repairing and shipyard unions, Lewis asserted. Geographically the organization would include workers on the east and west coasts, the gulf, the Great Lakes, and inland boatsmen.

Mervyn Rathbone, president of the American Radio and Telegraphists Association, was designated a CIO member of the organization committee.

Members elected by the conference are: Joseph Curran, of the National Maritime Union; Harry Bridges, president of the Pacific coast district of the International Longshoremen's Association, who led the 1934 and 1936 Pacific coast strikes; Captain E. T. Binchon, of the Masters' Mates' and Pilots' Union; V. J. Malone, of the West Coast Firemen and Oilers' Union; and John Green, president of the Industrial Union of Shipbuilders and Shipyard Workers.

Lewis said unions affiliating with the new federation "must leave the A. F. of L."

Shipbuilders in all yards, whether government navy yards, or commercial and repair yards, will be eligible for membership, he said.

The CIO chairman "assumed our suggestions will be in harmony with the views of Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, who was not invited to the conference."

In the Thick of the Alcoa, Tenn., Battle Yesterday

In the shadow of a "safety first" sign, police and pickets staged a bloody battle at the Alcoa, Tenn., Aluminum Company America mill when the mill reopened yesterday. This graphic picture shows pickets who have hidden behind an automobile, whirling around as they discover police closing in on them. Pistols are much in evidence.

national guard violence echoed through the Mahoning valley.

Republic, which reported 3,087 men resumed work Tuesday in three strike-affected Cleveland plants, said about 400 more had joined them. A fourth plant here, Steel Tubes, Inc., will reopen today.

Lee Pressman, general counsel for the CIO and its steel union affiliate, the SWOC, criticized the issuance of 157 indictments, naming 200 persons, at Youngstown, Ohio, as "direct attacks on lawful activities of workers and a condemnation of police violence."

Previously Pressman in a lengthy statement asserted a union attorney's investigation at Canton, Ohio, disclosed a "state of brutal terrorism" and said the national guard had "made itself a veritable army of occupation in Canton for the avowed purpose of breaking the strike."

Two national guard officers, Major J. M. Andrus and Captain Kent E. Lawrence, countered with the assertion: "The CIO is simply trying to build up public sympathy."

"Strikers were handled about as leniently as possible," the officers said. "In practically every charge of unnecessary violence, guardsmen have statements from witnesses that they took the only course open to them. We are not on one side or the other."

As Sheriff Ralph E. Elser at Youngstown prepared to serve the indictments Pressman said in an open letter to Prosecutor W. A. Ambrose:

"The indictments have not exposed the lawlessness now rampant in Mahoning county. On the contrary, the charges represent further efforts to intimidate striking steel workers into returning to work under nonunion conditions."

Jury Investigates Bombing. A grand jury convened at Warren, Ohio, to investigate an alleged bombing ring. Seven men were held on charges signed by Warren Police Chief Barney J. Gillen, who said that five had confessed and implicated others. One of the accused was Gus Hall, former CIO organizer for the Warren-Niles district, where Republic operates two plants.

B. J. Damich, SWOC regional director at Cleveland, disputed Republic's claim of the number at work in the three plants here and said, "You can cut the number in half and get a more accurate picture."

The union, meanwhile, protested use of national guardsmen in Cleveland in a telegram to President Roosevelt. Samuel Handelman, union attorney, addressing a mass meeting, urged women and children to picket the national guard quarters and make the troops "so uncomfortable they'll want to leave town."

SLUGGED BY FORD MEN. UNION OFFICIALS TESTIFY. DETROIT, July 7.—(AP)—Two union officials who led bandit distributors to gates of the Ford Motor Company's Dearborn plant May 26 told a National Labor Relations Board examiner today they were slugged and kicked down a concrete stairway.

They named Ford employees as their assailants. Richard Frankenstein, United Automobile Workers' organizational director, followed Walter Reuther, UAW west side local president, to the witness stand at the NLRB hearing on its complaint charging the Ford Company with unfair labor practices.

Declaring he was "kicked on the head until the back of it was as raw as beefsteak," the chunky

Frankenstein identified his assailant as Samuel Taylor, Ford foundry foreman. Reuther, named Theodore Greis, also a Ford employee, as one of those engaged in the fighting.

Taylor, Greis and six other persons, most of them Ford employees, were arraigned before Common Pleas Judge Ralph W. Liddy today on assault warrants issued in connection with the riot. Their examination was set for next Wednesday.

Frankenstein and Reuther were the first union members to tell of the fighting that attended the attempt to distribute union leaflets to Ford workers leaving the huge River Rouge plant. They occupied the stand most of the second day of the NLRB hearing, after plans for a second distribution of literature this morning were abandoned.

RABUN STRESSING EDUCATION, HEALTH

Ross Brown on "Venereal Disease Control."

Afternoon meetings will begin at 8 o'clock and the night sessions at 8:30.

Judge Smith was one of the first commissioners in Georgia to place his county's bid for the $3,500 first award in The Constitution's Progressive Government Awards, and has launched an intensive county-wide drive to improve conditions especially regarding health and educational advantages.

He said yesterday, he proposes to offer county aid in eliminating surface toilets especially in schools of the county and to help citizens build a lasting program for progress and improvement.

Comments on Program. Commenting on the forum program, Judge Smith said: "Rabun County has initiated its open forum and annual institute as a part of its program to win the $3,500 first award in the Progressive Government contest which The Constitution has so generously sponsored to better the welfare of the people of Georgia. We believe that The Constitution's Progressive Government Awards contest will advance progress in Georgia to a degree that would otherwise have taken many years to attain."

"We believe in Rabun county that education and public health are two of our most fundamental problems. We think that no permanent solution can ever be reached until we first become aware of the nature and magnitude of our local problems and then grimly come to grips with them. The solution does not lie in complete state centralization nor must we forfeit our self-reliance and our birthright of local self-government by an abject, sycophantic attitude of letting Uncle Sam do it all. There are times, it is true, when the federal government must help us tide over emergencies, and equalize glaring inequalities. The state must also aid, guide and supervise; but we must locally work out our ultimate salvation."

Education in Rut? "We think that education in Georgia has gotten somewhat into a rut."

"We think that Rabun county has peculiar educational problems and opportunities. We have asked Dr. Collins and members of his staff to come and show us how we can make education more practical, how it can better fit our boys and girls for living."

"Public health has had very little attention in our county. We know that we have serious health problems that vitally affect the lives of present and future generations. We have asked Dr. Abercrombie and members of his staff to come and help us work out our health problems."

"The day of the physical frontier may be over but there are governmental, economic, educational and public health frontiers that require the same spirit of the old pioneer for us to conquer."

Dr. V. G. Heiser Advocates World Fund for Fight.

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP)—Dr. Victor G. Heiser, globe-trotting health specialist and author who hasn't "slept in the same bed three nights in succession since 1914," advocated today a worldwide $2,000,000 fund for a fight on leprosy.

The author of "The American Doctor's Odyssey" and chairman of the health committee of the New York World's Fair of 1939, arrived on the Hamburg-American liner St. Louis.

Heiser left here nine months ago on a trip devoted in part to interesting nations in attending the international leprosy congress in Cairo, Egypt, next march. He said Great Britain offered $100,000 a year toward the $2,000,000 fund.

COUNTY POLICE OFFICER IS NAMED LIEUTENANT

The county commission yesterday promoted Sergeant Jack Carroll to the rank of lieutenant of the county police. The promotion is effective as of July 1.

Chief George Matheson announced that the new lieutenant would devote his time to helping devise rules for aiding the traffic situation on the county roads.

Commissioner Edwin F. Johnson, chairman of the police committee, made the motion for Carroll's promotion. "He pointed out that the new lieutenant has a 'long and honorable record' and has figured in some of the biggest cases handled by the county police force."

TWO MEN DIE IN CRASH OF CROP-DUSTING PLANE

MORRISVILLE, Pa., July 7.—(AP)—Two men lost their lives late today when the airplane in which they were dusting crops with insecticide struck a tree and plunged into the old Lehigh canal.

An eyewitness told how, first on the scene, he held the head of the injured pilot above water but could not pull the flyer out because he was pinned in the wreckage. When more men arrived to help, their weight proved too much for the plane and it sank deeper, carrying the injured man with it.

The victims were identified as Richard Shanklin, 25, Chicago, a transport pilot, and Stanley Penagally, 23, Trevorton, Pa., duster, by A. C. Wilson, their employer.

Today's Escapes

Atlanta police last night were warned to be on the lookout for three convict trustees who "walked off" from the state highway camp at Herndon, Ga., late last night.

Deputy Warden Ralph L. English, who called local police, described the men as Clyde Smith Browning, 43, sent up from Fulton county in 1933 to serve from 10 to 20 years for burglary; James R. McQueen, alias S. E. Burns, 33, and John Henry Watkins, 37. Former addresses and forwarding addresses of the latter two were not secured.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys. Many of those nagging, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking green acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 8 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, humpbacks, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and wipe out the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

SUSPECT ARRESTED IN ACWORTH HOLDUP

Second Man Is Sought in Probe of Bank Robbery.

MARIETTA, Ga., July 7.—Jack Ramsey, 33, of Black's Bluff road near Rome, today was held in the Cobb county jail here on a warrant charging highway robbery in connection with the $1,900 holdup of the Bank of Acworth last Friday.

Cobb county authorities, revealing Ramsey's arrest in Rome following his tentative identification by three customers of the bank, disclosed a search is being made for a second suspect in the robbery, also said to have been tentatively identified as one of the trio who staged the holdup.

Ramsey's arrest was said to have resulted after an Atlanta private detective, working with Police Chief N. B. Terry, of Acworth, traced the bandit's car to Rome. Customers who were in the bank at the time of the hold-up were asked to view a number of Rome police pictures, from which two were picked.

TWO ORDERED HELD IN CIGARET THEFTS

Pair Jailed After Disappearance of $900 Cargo.

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 7.—(AP) U. S. Commissioner Nathan A. Brown today ordered two men docketed as William B. Edmondson, of Macon, and Robert W. Woodward, of Atlanta, held under bonds of $1,000 each in connection with the theft of cigarettes valued at approximately $900 from an interstate shipment.

The case involves the disappearance of 15 cases of a popular brand of cigarettes from a truck bound for Jacksonville. The theft was discovered after the truck reached Macon.

Judge Brown said Edmondson, arrested here Monday night, pleaded guilty at the commitment hearing, implicating Woodward. Both were said to be drivers for a trucking company.

PUERTO RICO SCHOOLS MAY GET FEDERAL AID

SAN JUAN, P. R., July 7.—(AP) Governor Blanton Winship left by plane today for Washington to outline to President Roosevelt plans for enlarging public schools in Puerto Rico with federal aid.

The proposed program is in line with a wish expressed by the President that all island children have an equal chance for basic schooling.

Winship, before departing, said the fiscal year ended last June 30 showed a new high record for Puerto Rican current revenues exceeding $16,000,000.

Long-Dead Sioux 'Makes' Spiritist Speak in Indian

LILY DALE, N. Y., July 7.—(AP) Spiritualist spokesmen said a Sioux Indian chief, 300 years dead, along with Chinese and French spirits, made electrical recordings for Uncle Sam's ethnological experts today.

But "Tony," the Italian comedy element in the spirit repertoire of Horace S. Hambling, naty British medium, couldn't be reached. Hambling said the Indian, "Moon Trail," took command of his vocal chords and made a 10-minute recording that will be sent to the Bureau of Ethnology at Washington.

With it will go, he said, a five-minute "message" credited to "Ruan Fo," the Chinese, and another from the Frenchman whom Hambling failed to identify.

Tried to Contact "Tony." He said he tried for several minutes to get the rollicking "Tony" to the microphone but couldn't locate him in the "spirit world." At this spiritualist colony's first recording session last week, "Tony" joked with his audience and called the recorder "a scratching machine."

R. G. Pressing, editor of the Dale News, said he and "a critical audience" of eight watched the recording-making. "Moon Trail" addressed himself in English first to his "dear children of earth," Pressing reported. "Of course, several of the Indian words cannot be placed in today's Sioux language," Pressing quoted from "Moon Trail's message."

Even English Has Changed. "Even the English language has changed much in 300 years as compared with the English we know today."

"I will try to remember the tongue I have not used for so long."

Here, Pressing said, "Moon Trail" indicated he might have trouble twisting Hambling's unaccustomed vocal chords into the strange language of the old-time Sioux.

"Ruan Fo" identified the message he sent as "several Confucius proverbs," Pressing said. Hambling said he transmitted the "messages" while in a complete trance.

"Naturally, I'm not able to speak Indian, Chinese or French in my normal state," he said. "I will be as interested as anyone to hear the outcome of these records in Washington."

SOVIET COMMITTEE MEETS TO RATIFY OWN DEATH EDICT

New Law Will Assure Direct Election of Leaders; Crowd Cheers Stalin.

MOSCOW, July 7.—(P)—Central executive committee of the U. S. S. R. meeting probably for the last time, assembled in St. Andrews' hall of the Kremlin tonight to ratify the first election law under the new constitution which will do away with the executive committee.

More than 400 delegates and 2,000 spectators applauded frantically when Joseph Stalin, Defense Commissar Klementi Voroshilov, L. M. Kaganovich and other members of the politbureau and government appeared on the platform. The law would insure universal suffrage, secret voting, and direct election of all representatives in place of the present pyramid system allowing direct election of only subordinate members of local Soviets.

Jacob Yakovlev, president of the electoral committee, declared the new parliament, consisting of two houses, one elected on a population basis and one on a geographic basis, probably will be chosen next autumn.

The president reiterated constitutional provisions guaranteeing freedom of speech, the press, assembly and pledging effective enforcement.

The parliament, called the supreme council of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, will choose a presidium of 37 members to wield executive powers when the supreme council is not in session.

"Surgical Operation." The program for Palestine, which the commission described as a "surgical operation," will be submitted shortly to the League of Nations, which has the final word as Britain is the administrator of a League mandate over the country.

A special meeting of the League's permanent mandates commission, to be held July 30 in Geneva, will consider the plan

Atlanta Boys Tuning Up Soap Box Derby Entries

With preliminaries of the Atlanta Soap Box Derby only 15 days away, Atlanta's youthful racers are rapidly completing their 1937 model soap box cars so that "plenty" time will remain for tests and minor corrections. Blackie Landrum, of 206 East Yale street, College Park, is shown above making a minor adjustment after a short trial run in his new machine. The preliminaries will be run at Soap Box Derby Downs on Northside drive July 22 and 23. Finals will be run July 24. The winner of the Atlanta race will compete with winners in Athens, Griffin and Gainesville for the right to represent The Constitution and north Georgia in the All-American Soap Box Derby at Akron, Ohio, August 15.

and report to the League council for final action. Britain has ruled over the strife-torn Holy Land since 1923 under mandate following Turkey's loss of it in the World War.

The report of the five-man commission, appointed in August, 1936, following virtual civil war in Palestine, was unanimous. Among the salient points in the official summary of the report were:

No Hope of Fusion. "There can be no question of fusion or assimilation between Jewish and Arab cultures. The (Jewish) national home cannot be half-national. 'The gulf between the races is thus already wide and will continue to widen if the present mandate is maintained.'"

"The Arab higher committee was to a large extent responsible for maintaining and protracting the strife last year. The mufti of Jerusalem as president must bear his due share of responsibility."

Economic Pressure Grows. "The problem of immigration has been aggravated by three factors:

"1. The drastic restrictions imposed on immigration in the United States; 2. the advent of the national Socialist government in Germany, and 3. increasing economic pressure on the Jews in Poland. His Majesty's government should lay down a 'political high level' of Jewish immigration. This high level should be fixed for the next five years at 12,000 per annum."

The suggested partition scheme would form a Jewish state resembling roughly a hatchet standing on the tip of its handle. The frontier between the Jewish and Arab states would follow the existing northern and eastern frontier across Lake Tiberias (Sea of Galilee) to the outflow of the river Jordan. It then would turn west toward the sea to the maritime plain when it would run southward until it reaches and trucks, against 2,600,000 in the first half of 1936.

Freight Loadings Increase. The 14 per cent jump in the number of freight cars hauled by railroads so far this year widens the rate of increase over previous years. The following tabulation pictures the trend of loadings in the first half of each year:

1937	18,928,106 cars.
1936	16,583,794 cars.
1935	15,160,749 cars.

Miscellaneous freight, a yardstick of industrial shipments, contributed most to the upturn.

The biggest improvement in the entire business field occurred in those industries dealing with other producers rather than the general public. This was due mainly to the fact this group had farthest to go along the recovery road to reach the "normal" of prior years.

state in which to press such action.

The first filed suit here last May 3, and brought a new action one month later when the court sustained a demurrer to the first.

The second suit was accompanied by letters which Wallace said he wrote to Miss West—one speaking of his love and affection for her and asking she recognize him as her husband, the other setting forth he had a legal claim to community property.

Cites Community Property. Community property accumulated by the couple, Wallace declared, was in excess of $100,000.

One of the letters read in part: "I say to you sincerely, Mae, that my love and affection for you has never diminished and through the past years I have proven this by living up to the agreement we made that neither of us mention our marriage."

"You know that this agreement was made because you felt that if the public knew you were married, it would hinder your career."

Separated in 1914. Wallace set forth that he and Miss West lived together until March 14, 1914, "when without cause the defendant ceased to live with the plaintiff."

Miss West could not be found today. A friend said she was "at the springs." There are several spas in this region frequented by motion picture folk.

She never has had much to say about Wallace's claims. Once she lamented:

"It's really too bad I haven't had a husband the last couple of years. If I had, it would have saved me money on my income tax."

Wallace has made no specific request for a share of community property. He has asked Miss West for an inventory of what he described as their common property.

HER MARRIAGE LICENSE UNCOVERED BY WPA. MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 7.—(P)—The marital status of Mae West, who admitted today in Los Angeles she married Frank Wallace 26 years ago, first became speculative in the spring of 1935, when WPA workers delving into old courthouse files uncovered a yellowed marriage license bearing the names of the actress and Wallace.

The document was dated April 11, 1911, the date Wallace claimed in a 22-page affidavit filed before the New York state supreme court November 27, 1936, he married the actress.

When Miss West was informed of the discovery, she was quoted as saying it must have been another Mae West.

The application gave the addresses of both parties as Brooklyn, New York. It was sworn to before Arthur Shukin, then clerk in the county clerk's office.

C. D. A. CHIEF CITES PERIL IN SECURITY. Miss McKeough Sees Danger in Midst of Plenty.

BRETTON WOODS, N. H., July 7.—(P)—Miss Mary E. McKeough, of Rutland, Vt., national chairman of the Catholic Daughters of America's Committee on Social Welfare, tonight warned against a "danger that we become too secure in the midst of so much security."

To the organization's 17th biennial national convention she declared:

"It is our duty as Catholic women to see that underprivileged children receive the benefits given by the state and federal government, and, at the same time, to see that they are given an opportunity to know God, to love Him and to serve Him."

"When we read the reports of the various outstanding American organizations and the resolutions that are framed upon un-Christian principles—we realize that we are not living in the security we would like to."

Alice Faye Injured. HOLLYWOOD, July 7.—(P)—Alice Faye, blonde singing star, fell down a flight of stairs during the filming of a movie scene today and suffered back injuries and bruises. Studio physicians said she apparently suffered no internal injuries.

Wheeler turned the thrust upon him. "The senator from Kentucky," he observed, "is the fellow who is seeing spoons."

A number of senators, Logan said, "would not have been here at all but for the magnificent leadership of President Roosevelt."

He added his charge of "ingratitude" against those who, he said, "go out of their way to make a vicious attack on the man who is responsible for their position in public life."

Wheeler replied that far from being elected "on the President's coat tails," he had had a part in bringing about the President's nomination at Chicago in 1932, when, he added, many who now support him were opposing him.

became conservation minded," she said. "I probably will work most this summer on Lakes Burton, Rabun and Seed in enforcing fishing laws. This fall I will aid in enforcing the hunting laws."

Miss Keese's parents live at LaVonia. So with the advent of Miss Keese, Georgia sportsmen face the added vicissitude of having to deal with women cops. Those who know Miss Keese and her love for game warn that those breaking the law are headed for trouble.

DE VALERA DEFIES LABOR PARTY FOES

Declares Government Won't Be Swayed From Policy By 'Pressure.'

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 7.—(P)—President Eamon De Valera, who failed to get a majority in the 22-member lower house of parliament, threw down the gauntlet tonight to the labor party, which holds the balance of power.

Defying the 13 labor members to oppose him, the New York-born president declared in a statement:

"The Fianna Fail (the government party) is satisfied that its policy was justified in practice and will not be diverted from it either to the right or to the left by any form of political pressure."

His new constitution, which cuts Ireland completely away from Great Britain, will be in operation within six months, he said. The laborites firmly opposed the constitution, but in the referendum taken in connection with the parliamentary elections it was approved by 599,635 to 452,692.

De Valera's party won 69 seats in the dail eireann (the lower house of parliament) in last week's election. Former President William T. Cosgrave's opposition group took 48, labor 13 and independents eight.

One of De Valera's adherents, as speaker, will not vote. If the president does not get cooperation from the dail he can call new elections.

CHATTANOOGA TO VOTE ON TAX, TEACHERS' PAY

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 7.—(P)—Two questions will be decided by Chattanooga voters at the polls tomorrow in a referendum election.

First, the ballot will offer the question of authorizing the city to levy a special school tax of from 4 to 7 mills, and second, the question of authorizing the city to fix a salary schedule for city teachers.

18 DIE IN BOILER BLAST. MEXICO CITY, July 7.—(P)—A dispatch to La Prensa today said 18 workers had been killed in a boiler explosion at a hacienda in Queretaro state.

COURT BILL SPLITS DEMOCRATIC RANKS

Uncommitted Senators Seen Drifting to Administration Compromise.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(P)—Another day of court bill debate, brief as it was, widened the breach in the Democratic party.

There was, however, an added drift of previously uncommitted Democratic senators to the administration compromise.

An Associated Press check-up placed the senate score at 38 to 37 for the new court bill, with 21 senators still publicly uncommitted. That is too close to justify administration hopes, if any there are, for a rush to avert intra-party strife on the eve of a congressional election year.

Heated Arguments. Democratic leaders who want party harmony hardly could have enjoyed the heated exchanges between Senators Logan and Wheeler.

Bitter charges of party-smashing and president-wrecking were voiced by the burly, dark-browed Kentuckian and as stormily met by tall Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana.

Wheeler was a special target of pro-bill Democrats.

Senator Minton of Indiana, commented, in a vein which observers considered sarcastic, on Wheeler's declaration that friendship for the President impelled him to oppose the court bill.

The galleries enjoyed the senate show to the full. So, presumably, did the Republicans. They were silent, leaving the Democrats to fight it out among themselves. In fact, not many Republicans even were there to listen. It is their strategy and has been right along to emphasize the Democratic split.

Galleries Enjoy Spectacle. They must have enjoyed the spectacle. Words were spoken which were hard to reconcile with the spirit of party harmony invoked at the Democratic get-together with the President on a Chesapeake bay island 10 days ago.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader, was careful to make a parliamentary point when the court bill was taken up. Under senate rules both the President's original bill and the compromise introduced by Senator Logan are now before the senate and open to amendment.

"If the substitute should be adopted, it would then be too late to offer any amendments to the substitute," McNary said.

"That is correct," ruled President Prom Tem Pittman, in the chair.

DUAL-PURPOSE DOOR NEARLY TRICKS POLICE

Two Atlanta detectives were faced with a perplexing problem last night that gave them a chance to prove their sleuthing ability.

Detectives J. A. Bailey and R. Davis, of the main squad, had reason to believe whisky was being kept at 422 Buchanan street. They arrived at the address, but careful searching revealed no spirits. However, they noticed an entrance to an attic in one room, but there was no visible means by which to reach it.

Careful observation resulted in the discovery of a door in an adjoining room with several panels kicked out. There were footprints on it too. Closer observation revealed the door could easily be unhinged and moved into the other room for use as a ladder.

Officers did this, discovered and confiscated 68 gallons of corn liquor, made no arrests.

Fire Wagons Get Rest During Two-Alarm Day

Fires in Atlanta were very particular about the hour they chose to originate yesterday.

The only two in the city during the past 24 hours—both of which did little or no damage—broke out within the 60 minutes following the hour of 9 o'clock, within 12 hours of each other.

The first was at 9:50 o'clock in the morning, the second at 9:22 o'clock last night when some neighbors got excited at burning trash and turned in an alarm.

Firemen have answered 45 alarms since July 1.

Quiet Getaway on Wedding Trip Denied Lois and Mark Palmour Jr.

By Sally Forth.

LOIS AND MARK PALMOUR JR. expected to make a quiet getaway without any "monkey doings," as Mark expressed it, following their marriage last Saturday afternoon. But from all Sally Forth hears, such was not the case. A string of tin cans tied to their automobile by Pat and Tom Eve, startled the neighbors when the bride and groom drove from the Columbia avenue residence of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merriam. The jangling music of the cans was heard long after the auto passed out of sight, and people all along the route that leads through Peachtree street to Florida, stopped to look, listen and smile.

This was not the only prank the newlyweds had to endure at the hands of relatives and friends. Elise Merriam filled the bride's suitcase full of rice, and Pat Eve his suitcase full of rice, too. This was unbeknownst to Lois and Mark, who thought they had guarded against such tricks being played upon them, by packing their own suitcases. They were not aware of what Elise and Pat had done until they reached Macon, the first stop on their wedding trip.

Elwyn Tomlinson and Henry Morgan followed the bridal couple out Whitehall street to add the tooling of automobile horns to the din of the tin cans. Every time Lois and Mark had to stop their car for a red traffic light, Elwyn and Henry jumped from their cars to shower rice on the bride and groom. Lois and Mark proved awfully good sports during all this foolishness, but it is safe to bet that they heaved a sigh of relief when they sped alone along the Macon highway after the pranksters turned back toward Atlanta.

ATLANTA relatives and friends of Marion McCrory, 18-year-old daughter of the Malcolm McCrorys, of Jacksonville, will have a fleeting glimpse of this pretty Florida today when she spends several hours here en route to Newnan. She will visit her aunt, Miss Mary Goodrum and Mrs. A. L. Norris, and will join her attractive first cousin, Caroline Armistead, daughter of the John Armisteads, of Rockingham, N. C.

Marion and Caroline will be central figures at the dinner given tomorrow evening by Miss Goodrum at the Newnan Country Club, and afterward they will be among the belles attending the dance at the club. Marion and Caroline possess the same type of beauty as they both have big brown eyes and reddish-brown hair. Aside from being good to look at, they have personal magnetism, charming manners, and dance like the proverbial fairies.

Marion graduated in June from Glenora, a private school in Jacksonville, and will finish her education at Wellesley College, the alma mater of her mother. Caroline enters upon her junior year at Agnes Scott College in the autumn, and is following in the footsteps of her mother, who as Frankie McCrory, received her education at this well-known college in Decatur.

Those prominent Atlantans, Goodrum and Alonzo Norris, are cousins of Marion and Caroline, who are descended from some of Georgia's most cultured and distinguished families.

ATLANTA will lose one of the city's most attractive belles

Garner-Johnston Plans Announced

The marriage of Miss Alice Frances Garner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dean Garner, of this city, and Robert Daniel Johnston Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Johnston, of Birmingham, Ala., will be solemnized on July 21 at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the Peachtree Christian church. Dr. Ryland Knight will perform the ceremony.

Miss Mary Kerr will be the bride-elect's maid of honor, and Miss Alma Lucy Fudger, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Miss Ruth McCurry will be bridesmaids. William Lutkins Johnston, of Birmingham, Ala., will be the groom-elect's best man and the groomsmen will be Dean Garner Jr., the bride-elect's brother, Richard Scruggs and Leonard Parnell, of Birmingham, and Emerson Ham, of this city.

Jack Garner, the bride-elect's younger brother, will be ringbearer. The bride-to-be will be given in marriage by her father, G. D. Garner.

Miss Garner is being honored at numerous social gatherings prior to her marriage. Miss Ruth McCurry will compliment the bride-to-be at a bridge-tee today at her home on Peachtree circle. Guests will include Misses Ruth Barnett, Mary Kerr, Anderson Dumas, Dorothy Mees, Louise Sims, Lillian Broard, Mesdames J. Ross Garner, Judson Garner, Robert Towles and Dean Garner.

On Friday Miss Anderson Dumas gives a bridge party in her honor at her home on Montgomery Ferry drive. Miss Garner will be the central figure at the bridge-tee to be given by Miss Sara Jarvis on Saturday at her East Lake drive residence.

On July 14, Mrs. R. L. Towles will be hostess at a breakfast for the bride-elect at her home on Elkmont drive, and the following day, Miss Dot Mees will give a luncheon at her home on Seventeenth street for Miss Garner. Miss Mary Kerr's luncheon is scheduled for July 17, at Brookhaven Country Club.

Miss Garner will entertain for her attendants, out-of-town guests and a few friends at a luncheon at Brookhaven Country Club on July 19. Others who will honor the bride-elect prior to her marriage are Mrs. Ross Garner and Mrs. Judson Garner, her aunts. A breakfast and handkerchief shower were given Wednesday morning by Miss Ann Brooks at her home on Stovall boulevard for Miss Garner.

Mrs. U. P. Brooks and Miss Jane Brooks, mother and sister of the hostess, assisted in entertaining.

Miss Frances Daniel's Marriage To James C. Collins Announced

MRS. JAMES C. COLLINS.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Daniel announce the marriage of their daughter, Frances Helen, to James C. Collins, formerly of Collinsville, Ala., on Tuesday, June 15. Rev. E. M. Altman, of the Grant Park Baptist church, performed the ceremony.

Miss Mary Ray acted as bridesmaid. She wore a suit of navy and white crepe with white accessories, and her flowers were talisman roses and valley lilies. W. P. Hicks served as best man for Mr. Collins.

The bride was becomingly gowned in a luggage tan and white sports dress with matching accessories. A shoulder cluster of talisman roses, showered with valley lilies, completed her costume. Mr. and Mrs. Collins left for a trip to Alabama and Tennessee. They will later reside in Knoxville, Tennessee.

Chapel at Emory Forms Setting For Hewlett-Johnson Marriage

The theological chapel at Emory University formed the setting for the beautiful nuptial ceremony at which Miss Sarah Hewlett became the lovely bride of William Thomson Johnson last evening at 8:30 o'clock. Dr. Nathaniel G. Long read the marriage service which assembled an interested throng of friends and relatives of the young couple.

The bridal party formed an effective tableau before the chapel altar which was banked with palms and other foliage plants. Rising at intervals among the foliage were floor standards topped with clusters of tall white gladioli. Flanking either side of this floral arrangement were standards holding cathedral candelabra in which burned gleaming white tapers. The pews reserved for members of the family connection were marked by graceful clusters of white gladioli tied with wide white satin ribbons.

Mrs. Mollie Horton Young, pianist, and Lucien Thomson, harpist, presented a program of music while the wedding guests assembled. The ushers were Harry Burns, Winsor Letton, Dudley Cook and Merrill Collier and the groomsmen included Lamartine Hardman, Robert Nelson, A. L. Groce and Robert Parham. Miss Virginia Sue Johnson, sister of the groom, was the bride's maid of honor, and her sister, Mrs. Robert Latta, was her matron of honor. They were becoming gowns of daffodil yellow net posed over taffeta of the same shade, and carried bouquets of talisman roses tied with green satin ribbons.

Bridesmaids Wear Green.

The trio of bridesmaids, Miss Sarah Knott, of Marietta; Mrs. Ralph Beasley and Miss Mary Brannan Leftwich, of Conyers, were gowned alike in effective costumes of lettuce green net fashioned over matching taffeta. Their sandals were of yellow satin, and completing their costumes were bouquets of souvenir roses tied with yellow satin ribbons.

Robert D. Hewlett gave his daughter in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Benjamin H. Gilmer. Lustrous bridal satin was employed to fashion the bride's costume which featured a high molded waistline and brief puffed sleeves. A Victorian collar of exquisite rose point lace and a row of tiny satin buttons extending from the neckline to the hem of the gown formed the only trimming. A wreath of orange blossoms bordered the halo of rose point lace from which fell the bridal veil of illusion tulle. The veil extended to cover the shimmering length of the long satin train. The bride carried an exquisite lace handkerchief which was used by her mother at her wedding. Completing the bridal ensemble was a shower bouquet of pale pink orchids and valley lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Hewlett entertained at a reception at their home on Oakdale road following the chapel service, the guests including the bridal party, the relatives and guests from a distance. Receiving with the hosts and the bridal party were the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Y. J. Johnson. The receiving party stood before the living room mantel which was massed with foliage plants studded with tall vases of white gladioli.

Misses White Feted During Visit Here

Among the lovely summer visitors in the city are Miss Mary Witt White, of Decatur, Ala., and Miss Olivia White, of Huntsville, Ala., who are the guests of the former's aunt, Mrs. Lee Bivings, at her Habersham road residence. A series of interesting parties has been planned in compliment to the Misses White during their visit.

This evening they will be central figures at a dance to be given at the Kappa Alpha fraternity house on Walliams street. Mrs. John Hines and her daughter, Miss Martha Merritt, have planned a luncheon and swimming party to be given today at the Capital City Country Club honoring these visitors.

Mrs. Bivings entertained at luncheon yesterday at her home for her guests, inviting to meet them a small group of the younger social contingent.

South Carolina Club Meets.

South Carolina Club met Monday at the Atlanta Woman's Club, followed by luncheon. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Robert G. Leiby.

The program chairman, Mrs. Fletcher G. Crout, presented a program consisting of a vocal solo by Mrs. Louis Sayre; a paper on "The Foundation of Winthrop College," by Mrs. D. F. Leaky; a short local topic on Charleston dialect by Mrs. M. G. Campbell, and an article, "A Tribute to South Carolina Women," by Mrs. Lella Lepard.

Eleven invitations extended to membership was reported by Mrs. Aubrey Motz, chairman. A study of South Carolina colleges will be continued at the next meeting.

lace, and her flowers were orchids. Miss Katherine Snooks kept the bride's book, and Misses Agnes and Lavinia Jones, Irene Scott, Dorothy Cunningham, Mrs. Logan Thomson and Mrs. George Knott assisted in entertaining.

To Honeymoon in New York.

Mr. Johnson and his bride left for Jacksonville, Fla., from which port they will sail for a two-week visit to New York. Mrs. Johnson wore for traveling a smart blue sheer wool ensemble, collared in azure fox and worn with a blue wool lace blouse. Her hat was a small model of blue felt, and her accessories were of a matching shade of blue. A spray of orchids adorned her shoulder.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will take possession of their recently completed home on Nacoochee drive. Guests from a distance who attended the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Lamartine Hardman, and Miss Claire Anderson, of Commerce; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Johnson, of Thomasville; Mrs. S. B. Road of Decatur; Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Baldwin, Dr. Parish Smith, Miss Kate Smith, Mrs. E. Reagan, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Leftwich, Dr. and Mrs. C. K. Gailey, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. # Trainer Advocates Rhythm of Movement for Overweight Stars

Your Figure, Madam
By IDA JEAN KAIN.

NO HUNGER STRIKES!
Hunger strikes will not help you to get slim, for hunger breaks down your resistance to food. With a little ingenuity in your calorie management, you can appease your appetite and stick to your diet until you are streamlined.

First of all, don't miss breakfast. You think you go breakfastless in a good cause, but as a matter of fact, breakfast is a mainstay against hunger. Then, too, skipping breakfast works a little more of difference in your weight if the total calories for the day are over your quota.

You will find that 275 calories in the morning give you a lift and make it easier to observe the limitation on your other meals. With a little pruning on the trimmings, your breakfast allowance may include an egg, a slice of buttered toast and coffee. To get all this food, however, you must measure the butter, sugar and cream. You are limited to one-half pat of butter per meal, and for the one slice of toast at breakfast, one-fourth pat. With the reducer's cup of coffee goes a rounded teaspoon of sugar, and a teaspoon of coffee cream. It takes only two tablespoons of thick cream and one lump of sugar to add 150 calories to your breakfast!

Luncheon should be a light but satisfying meal. Here's my suggestion for a slimming menu: Bouillon, a sandwich, a glass of buttermilk, and fruit—all safely within the 400-calorie luncheon average. If you take your sandwich with reducer's mayonnaise and no butter and have fruit for dessert, you could, of course, take 350 of those luncheon calories in dessert, depriving yourself of the necessary minerals, proteins and vitamins. Moreover, if you do, you are likely to be hungry again before dinner.

Eat breakfast! Hunger breaks down food resistance.

At the evening meal of around 600 calories you may have a lean meat, two cooked vegetables, a salad, a low calorie dessert and a beverage. This is about what you would choose if you were not on a diet. But you must take only the lean meats, such as beef, veal, lamb, or chicken, and vegetables that are cooked plain. Salads are a boon to the reducer who makes use of the reducer's recipes for mayonnaise and dressing. You may take fruit three times a day, and thrive on it as a dessert.

It is no hardship to diet on three balanced meals a day. The menus are the kind that may be continued indefinitely—or at least until you are down to normal weight. On them you will be well-fed while reducing, and this is an important item in your weight program.

Besides learning to manage your calories, you must curb your tendency to take large quantities of liquid with the meal, or to eat salt lavishly, or to eat rapidly. Make it a rule to drink only eight ounces of liquid with the meal, to salt sparingly and to have some leisure with your meals. These incidental rules help you to reduce on schedule.

Birthday Party.
Mrs. E. H. Steels entertained 16 guests at her home, 708 W. Loughway way, N. E., recently honoring her lovely young daughter, Constance June, on her tenth birthday. Pink and white was carried out in decorations and refreshments.

Above, Lynne Carver, late of Kentucky, reveals the proper step for walking. Keeping the body erect, she swings the arms, allowing her weight to fall on the ball of the foot. She must watch her step to develop a perfect figure.

Miss Carver demonstrates here the proper way to climb stairs, with knee action and body erect, arms held loosely at the side, throwing weight on the ball of the foot. This should be done as a regular exercise until it becomes the natural method.

For curing indolent and ungraceful habits of movement, she stoops for a handkerchief in the very best manner. Note how the knees and body are bent and the firm position of the head. This exercise is excellent for back and stomach and to reduce over-large hips.

She assumes the position taught in the army. This stance keeps the spine in proper place and balances the weight evenly on both feet. More important, it allows free play for the lungs, at the same time providing a graceful attitude for hands and arms.

Miss Carver, seated above, with legs drawn together, hands folded, body and head erect, demonstrates the perfect sit-down posture. To acquire a natural easy pose, it is a good idea to rise and sit in this position several times a day.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Tuesday—I have scanned the papers with great anxiety since Friday evening, when I first heard over the radio that Amelia Earhart and her navigator were missing. I never feel like giving up hope for anyone who has courage until every possible chance for rescue is over. For I think resourceful, courageous people will fight with every means at hand until they are completely worn out.

This morning I feel more hopeful than before and I am hanging on the telephone hoping to hear good news of her. I feel sure that if she comes through safely, she will feel that what she has learned makes it all worth while. But her friends will wish science could be served without quite so much risk to a fine person, whom many people love as a person and not as a pilot or adventurer.

There is in Washington a really fine Capella choir which is at present singing for a short time at the Chautauqua Institute in Chautauqua, N. Y. Mrs. Stahl, who has mothered this choir, writes me that for a long time she has hoped she could induce people who are interested in music to help the promising voices she might discover by offering some "voice scholarships."

I do not know just what she has in mind, but I have long thought these choirs are valuable in any community because they help develop community singing, and community singing has a double purpose. It gives the people who partake a certain amount of training, but at the same time it enhances their appreciation of music and educates the community as a whole to be more music conscious.

Therefore, I would be interested in seeing small scholarships established which would enable young people to join these choruses or choirs, and receive enough remuneration to give them a boost in whatever work they might be doing on the outside.

We have had a quiet few days with few visitors. James arrived on Sunday morning and left with Betsy Monday evening, as did my husband. Only one visitor remained, and this morning at 7:30 we rode for two hours in the woods and survived the mosquitoes and flies.

The picnic for the newspaper fraternity was fairly cool and in consequence everyone could enjoy even the sunny spots on the lawn. Our foreign guests, Professor and Mrs. Ludwig, were a little surprised by the informality of the occasion and explained that what they called a garden party for the press in Europe would require top hats and frock coats. No one would engage in any activity but bowing over the teacups. "And where," he asked, "are the military?" We explained as best we could that we did not need soldiers, but realized our ways are hard for European biographers to understand.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth McCall and Oren Tanner, of this city, took place July 4 at the home of the bride on Springwood plantation, near Thomasville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Searcy Garrison in the presence of the families and close friends.

The bride received her education in the Cairo public schools while the groom attended the Douglas (Ga.) High school and attended college at Auburn, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. Tanner left on a wedding trip to New Orleans and upon their return they will be in Thomasville, where Mr. Tanner is engaged in the automobile business.

Novel Crochet for Beauty

Pattern 5885.

For lasting beauty, economy, too, let your choice be this stunning lace chair set, crocheted in a twinkling of just humble string. Hard to find an easier pattern than this, for it's simply crocheted in lace strips 5-14 x 12-14 inches, which are then joined together, as wide or as narrow a piece as you wish. These joined strips make lovely chair or davenport sets.

They'll stand weekly tubbings, too! In pattern 5885 you will find directions for making the strip shown and joining it; illustrations of it and of all stitches used; material requirements; a photograph of the actual strip.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Dept., The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

OXYGEN AND "NERVOUSNESS."

I am beginning to be despondent about medicine. I have delved and delved, I have even bought several medical books and subscribed to some of the most pretentious medical journals, yet I have never found (a) a definition of "the common cold," (b) a well authenticated case of rabies in man, or (c) what "nervousness," "nerve strain" or "nervous exhaustion" means. Not that there is any dearth of literature about all of these hypothetical states; indeed there are tons of it produced annually, but no matter how thickly you pad it, it is still baloney.

Describing the marked increase in fatigability of persons recently arrived at Cerro de Pasco, 14,200 feet altitude, Barcroft (Observations on the Effects of High Altitudes on the Physiological Processes) says that any prolonged mental effort unusually involved a degree of fatigue which necessitated a "nervous breakdown."

One of the most prolific medical authors says "In the neurotic states, the most constant symptom is fatigability."

Unaccountable errors of judgment on the part of pilots of high flying airplanes (most transcontinental flights are at 10,000 feet or higher) was considered a primary cause of 16 out of 27 accidents investigated by the Department of Commerce.

Physicians who have studied the matter now regard "pilot error" as a symptom of oxygen want, the deficiency of oxygen in the blood and tissues at altitudes over 8,000 feet. The medical term for this oxygen deficiency in the blood is anoxemia and the oxygen deficiency in the tissues and cells of the body is called anoxia.

All of the symptoms of anoxemia or anoxia or oxygen deficiency or moderate asphyxia, whether from rarefaction of the air and lowering of atmospheric pressure at such altitudes or from slight carbon monoxide gassing at or near sea level, are identical with the symptoms that have been ascribed to "neurasthenia" or "nervous exhaustion."

Now I have a crazy notion—I should say another crazy notion—that oxygen deficiency may be the fundamental factor of most of the "neurotic" or "nervous weakness" so many people purport to have when doctors can't find any organic explanation for their complaints or frailties. I do not mean to imply that a few whiffs of oxygen will restore nervous wreck to normalcy.

I think the oxygen deficit may be due to an oxygen shortage in the air in some cases, and to some constitutional incapacity to utilize oxygen in metabolism in other cases—an incapacity comparable with the constitutional incapacity of the diabetic individual to utilize sugars and starches in metabolism. Alas, we have no analogue of insulin to recommend for the victim of deficient oxygen utilization. Nearest approach I can suggest to promote better utilization of oxygen in metabolism is exercise, muscular play, muscular work.

GRACE MOORE BALKS AT WARBLING BLUES.

HOLLYWOOD, July 7.—Art and the box office, rather than Grace Moore, opera singing movie star, and Harry Cohn, Columbia president, are the actual combatants in a fresh feud now raging at that studio over choice of musical numbers for Miss Moore's new song, "I'll Take Romance."

Mr. Cohn believes movie fans are not yet grand opera conscious. He wants Miss Moore to inject a few "hot" numbers into the show.

But when Miss Moore discovered Mr. Cohn's idea of a swell specialty was "The St. Louis Blues," her outraged dignity knew no bounds.

"He can't do that to me," cried Miss Moore. "First he forced me to milk a cow ('The King Steps Out'), then he had to sing 'Minnie the Moocher' ('When You're in Love')—and now, this. It is too much!"

This time, Miss Moore insists, she won't give in.

Scattered sights and sounds: The Bing Crosby family is concerned over the condition of three-year-old Dennis, one of the twins,

The tall and willowy Anna Sten seeks desperately to retrieve 10 lost pounds in time for the start of her comeback picture, "Gorgeous," and is staking all on a vegetable diet.

Elaine and John Barrymore continue to coo for the edification of the tourist trade as they dine nightly in Hollywood restaurants. Invariably Ariel chooses Caliban's victuals for him. . . . Personal nomination for the smartest, most riotously entertaining comedy since "Easy Living," with Jean Arthur, Ray Milland and Edward P. Arnold, which will be delivered soon to the fans. . . . Paramount is breathing easier now that Marlene Dietrich has just purchased an estate at Lake Arrowhead.

This, coupled with her recent application for United States citizenship, seems to assure permanency. . . . Edna May Oliver has returned from a month's vacation in Europe to play the role of a queen in "Rosalie." "Too much caviar" ruined her trip, she says. . . . The anger of feminine fans will be braved by the intrepid Robert Benchley, who'll start a short titled "How To Raise a Baby." He'll tell father's side of the story.

Dual bills are shattering the ranks of comedians in the short subject field. With theater running time at a premium, the one and two-reelers are finding it difficult to survive. Buster Keaton has quit to direct for M-G-M, and Charlie Chase, long a standby, has renounced grimacing for a post as technical advisor at R. K. O. . . . Several studios are confident the life of John D. Rockefeller is first-rate movie "copy." Warner Brothers are hurriedly devising a story with an oily background and are expected to cast Paul Muni in the star role. M-G-M has fashioned a script called "Emperor of Oil," and there is a good chance Clark Gable will play it. But Paramount gets the jump on the field. It has "High Wide and Handsome," a historical romance dealing with the development of the oil industry, ready for national release July 14.

Walter Kane an agent himself, tells of the dissolute star who signed a church pledge restraining him from further drinking.

Home Institute—Secrets of Conversation

Good conversation! That's what makes friends for you—encourages them to drop in, ask you out, call up.

Sparkling conversation doesn't take a brilliant mind. Just observe a few do's and don'ts.

The Don'ts.
1. Don't deflate the other fellow by saying, "Yes, I know" or "I've heard this one before."

2. If you're asked whether you liked a certain movie or book, don't cut off the talk by answering simply "yes" or "no." Give the conversation a lift by saying, "Yes, and did you love that wild mountain scenery as much as I did?" Or "No, I thought the story much too sordid. Do you think people really live like that?"

3. Don't ask coily over the phone "Guess who this is!" You're only irritating, not mysterious.

The Do's.
1. Refer to the other fellow's tastes. "I had an idea you'd feel that way about it" or "Did you see that article about your favorite movie star, Bill?" Notice the friendly touch of the name.

2. Use a confident tone—"I know that my experience on the bus will amuse you," not a weak and timid "I didn't tell you, did I, about my experience on the bus?"

3. Learn the names that make news by reading the papers. Glance at the headlines, at least, on the sports pages if you'd interest them. Often that's the first page they read.

Our 40-page booklet, Improving Your Conversation, helps you overcome self-consciousness in talking. How to open a conversation, what to say, how to steer as you'd have it go.

GOOD MORNING
By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Dr. C. D. Hubert, pastor of Providence Baptist church and professor in Morehouse College, in a remarkable address before a joint session of the white and colored ministers of Atlanta a few days ago, speaking on the teachings of Christ in their relationship to the economic order, said:

"I believe that God is trying to produce a complete personality in every human being. Anything that stands in the way of this full expression of God's will for and in each life is sin. . . . You can't do very much with a man who is dreaming on an empty stomach. He is liable to imagine violent conclusions. People who are forced to accept charity are at once penalized in their own estimation. Jesus dealt with maladjustments in the economic order of His day—under-fed people, sick people, depressed and suppressed people—and He sought at all times to give dignity and moral worth to every personality. He condemned those who oppressed, and He condemned those who wouldn't work. He would have no economic problems if all men would work together in producing in each man, woman and child a complete personality."

I have not heard a finer, fairer, more convincing analysis of our economic situation in a long while. These brief quotations merely suggest the thesis of this scholarly and practical address. We may well be grateful for men like Dr. Hubert who are so wisely and effectively leading the negro race in these days of transition. As I listened to Dr. Hubert, Dr. Carter and other widely accepted negro leaders the other day, I thought of that passage of Scripture in Hebrews: "We see not yet all things put under Him, but we see Jesus."

Only we might quit worrying about our problem—inter-racial problems, economic problems, political problems—and begin today to follow Jesus in our immediate relationships, the haunting fears which befog our way would lift as the mists before the rising sun.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL
By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: My fiancé is not in a financial position to be married at present, but is expecting a promotion in his business soon. I think it best to wait until he has a larger income before we are married, but even though he has not accused me of having too little love for him, I'm afraid he thinks just that because of my decision. I am not "mercenary" and do not expect a large pay check, but I do know that if he doesn't bring home enough money to meet the necessary bills, we can never hope to have a peaceful married life. His parents have, naturally, taken care of all household expenses and so he has no conception of the amount needed for even two people. Am I too practical in my stand? Even though I love him dearly and want to be married just as much as he does, my head seems to rule my heart.

THOUGHTFUL.

Answer: No, you aren't too practical and it is a great pity that every girl can't use her head in such a decision, even when her heart is pounding out protest. Landlords, merchants, doctors, and dentists can't be paid with sweet sentiment. It takes hard cash to satisfy them. The couple so short in cash that they can't satisfy the creditors won't be long at peace with one another; for love and debt can't live together.

A woman has just published a book in which she tells her readers how to live well on whatever income they may have. One reviewer comments that the trick seems to lie in setting aside a liberal allowance "for a flexible item called miscellaneous." Here it is that so many engaged couples stub their toes. They make out a paper budget providing for everything they know is coming; get married and discover that the surprise expenses are greater than the expected ones.

No budgeters are smart enough to foresee the thousand and one items of expense that rise up from nowhere to meet the household. Certainly not the boy who has sat at papa's table, used papa's gasoline, read papa's paper and borrowed papa's socks. They make out a paper budget. There's only one way for a young couple to be ready for these breath-taking surprises: it is to put plenty on the miscellaneous item in the budget, and then put the money in the bank.

Engagement days are sweet and can be drawn out considerably without losing any of their sweetness and light but look out for the first few years of matrimony when the young people are deprived of amusements and fun with debts they can't pay. Dunned by the merchants, hounded by collectors and have to sit glaring at one another, thinking what fools they were.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I am up in years but not very wise where love is concerned. Six years ago I met a man who isn't my ideal yet I loved him in spite of his drinking and his other bad habits. We have carried on a regular correspondence during this time and at least once a year he has been to see me. Much of this time he has been unemployed due to hard luck and one thing and another. While he has never asked me to marry him, I am sure he cares for me. Now he comes with a proposition that I visit his town since he can't afford to visit mine. I would stay at a hotel and pay my own way. Would this be a foolish investment on my part?

ONE-NOT-SO-SURE.

Answer: It would not only be foolish for you to accept that proposition but utterly reckless; for the man who loves a woman does not set traps for her. The invitation is the proof that he doesn't care for you in the right way and if you accept it, you will be sorry.

Everybody understands why a drowning man catches at a straw, and everybody but the drowning man knows that the straw won't save him. If after six years' devotion to this man, you have nothing to show but an invitation to make him a visit that will compromise you, you are grasping at a straw.

No woman wants to be wise where love is concerned, if wisdom means giving up her cherished dream but, sad to say, her shutting her eyes to the truth doesn't alter the truth one iota. She has to face it sooner or later. When a free man loves a woman he either asks her to marry him or he tells her frankly why he can't. He does not dodge the issue, remain silent on the subject and leave her to draw her own conclusions.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Miss Young and Mr. Frazer Wed At First Presbyterian Church

MR. AND MRS. JAMES NISBET FRAZER.

Before an assemblage of prominent Atlantans and out-of-town guests, Miss Rebecca Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lane Young, became the bride of James Nisbet Frazer last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church. Dr. William V. Gardner performed the ceremony which was preceded by a program of nuptial music rendered by the organist, Dr. Charles Sheldon. Miss Frances Young, the bride's sister, sang "At Dawning" and "Oh Promise Me." As the wedding attendants descended the church aisle Dr. Sheldon played the wedding march from "Lohengrin" while a choir of female voices sang the chorus from the Wagner music. Easter lilies and white gladioli predominated in the decorations of the church pulpit on which was erected a rostrum, the steps of which were covered with white crash and outlined on either side by aisle posts topped with clusters of white gladioli and Easter lilies and connected by white silk ropes.

Graceful Arrangement. At the back of the platform palms and ferns were banked in graceful arrangement and interspersed by floor baskets of Easter lilies and white gladioli. Between each basket were seven-branched candelabra in which gleamed white taper. A white satin covered prie dieu stood before the altar on which was arranged a basket of white flowers in shower effect. Bows for the families of the bride and groom were designated by clusters of Easter lilies and white gladioli tied with wide white satin ribbon. The bridesmaids and groomsmen walked down the aisles in pairs, the latter including Malon Courts, William Bell Roberts, Henry L. Young Jr., and Norman Ramsey. The bridesmaids were Misses St. Julianne Pringle, Mary Hurt, Lida Read Voigt, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Suzanne Strassburger, of Montclair, N. J.

Mercorized Wax

Makes Skin Lovelier

The freshness and loveliness of youth—that springtime glow in the complexion—don't let them slip away. Mercorized Wax will do wonders to halt the years and keep the skin as beautiful as it can be. Mercorized Wax is an all-purpose cream that is a complete home beauty treatment in itself. Mercorized Wax transforms the appearance of your skin. Dried-out surface cells melt away. Discolorations, blemishes, disappear. The vital young under skin is then revealed in all its flawless loveliness. Mercorized Wax brings out the hidden beauty.

Use Saxolite Astringent daily. A refreshing, stimulating skin tonic. Smooths out wrinkles and age lines. Refines coarse pores. Eliminates oiliness. Dissolve Saxolite in one-half pint witch hazel. At all drug stores.—(adv.)

bodice and full skirt which reached several yards into train length. A narrow cuff of exquisite rose-point lace trimmed the becoming leg-o-mutton sleeves and formed a yoke in the bodice. The bride's veil of Brussels lace was that worn by Mrs. Harry Lange, close friend of the bride, at her wedding. Fashioned over billowy layers of white tulle the veil was held to the bride's hair in modish effect by small clusters of orange blossoms across the top of her head. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and valley lilies and made in cascade shape.

Ushers were John N. Goddard, Frank Hawkins, L. H. Parris, Henry Henz, J. Roy Fant, of Lockhart, S. C., and Warren Moise.

Reception Follows. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Young entertained at a reception at the Biltmore hotel, the guests assembling on the garden terrace, where they were received by the hosts and members of the bridal party and Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Poole, the groom's brother and sister.

Mrs. Young wore a handsome gown of apricot beige net fashioned over matching taffeta. Her shoulder bouquet was formed of bronze-shaded orchids. Mr. Frazer was dressed in Wedgwood-blue chifon made over satin to match and worn with a shoulder cluster of orchids.

Misses Elizabeth Wilmot and Dolly Nicholson, of Union, S. C., kept the bride's book.

The bride's table was arranged at one end of the terrace and covers were placed for the bride and groom and their attendants. A three-tiered wedding cake, embossed in valley lilies and tiny pastel-colored daisies formed the bride's central decoration. A circle of valley lilies outlined the base of the cake, which was topped by a shower bouquet of valley lilies. Small vases of valley lilies were arranged in artistic intervals on the table, and the guests' places were marked by miniature pictures of the bride and groom. Mr. Frazer and his bride left in the late evening for New Orleans, from where they sail for a Caribbean cruise. They will return August 1 and reside in the Ponce de Leon apartments. For traveling the bride donned a striking ensemble fashioned of beige summer crepe and worn with a three-quarter-length cape to match. Her off-the-face hat was made of London taffeta, and she wore other accessories in this shade.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Miss Lida Reed Voigt, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Miss Suzanne Strassburger, of Montclair, N. J.; J. Roy Fant and Murray Fant, of Lockhart, S. ## TAKE WEIGHT OFF TIRED FEET

Loss Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

If your feet and ankles feel tired and ache all over—because you are carrying too much fat—do something about it. Try the treatment that has helped millions to reduce excess weight.

There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right. All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat. This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" acts in a furnace.

Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding the gland the substance it lacks—and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out in this way.

Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on the same method used by doctors. So don't waste your time or money striving to reduce with starvation diets or back-breaking exercises. Start the Marmola treatment today that millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat. The formula is in every box so you know just what you are taking. Don't wait—get a box of Marmola today from your druggist.

When Joe (Ducky) Medwick forced Arky Vaughan at second, as shown above, on his first appearance at the plate in yesterday's all-star game at Washington, fans were wondering if his .400 average for the season against National league pitching was just a fluke. (Gehrig is on the bag making the putout, after receiving a toss from Joe Cronin). Ducky dispelled any such thoughts by hitting safely in his next four trips to the plate for a new all-star record for hits and a batting average of .800 against three of the American league's best pitchers. Two of his blows were doubles.

GRIFFITH STADIUM, Washington, July 7.—Play-by-play descriptive of the All-Star major league game:

FIRST INNING.
NATIONALS—Paul Waner sliced a hard shot that Red Rolfe scooped out of the dirt, and tossed to Gehrig for the putout.
BILLY TERRY fouled the second pitch to Dickey just behind the plate.
Arky Vaughan gave the National leaguers their first chance to cheer when he lined a single to short center.
Joe Medwick, only .400 hitter in the big leagues, took two balls, then bounced into a forced play, Cronin to Gehrig.
AMERICANS: Red Rolfe failed in an attempt to bunt and grounded out, Herman to Mize.
The crowd alternately cheered and jeered Dean, who wagged his head in disapproval of some of umpire McGowan's decisions behind the plate.
Dickey protested loudly when McGowan failed to call what the pitcher thought was a slider strike on Charley Gehrig, who then lined to Bartlett on the next pitch.
Joe DiMaggio worked the count to three and two, then walked.
Lou Gehrig, swinging vainly at a fast ball, with the count two and one, fouled out.

THE SPORTLIGHT by GRANTLAND RICE

YANKEES STEAL THE SHOW.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(AP)—The big show went to the Yankees. They ran baseball's all-star parade without the ghost of an argument. The Yankee section from the game's main cast picked out the President of the United States and over 31,000 steaming, sweltering fans to prove their place on top of the heap.

It was Lefty Gomez, the Yankee pitching ace, who first halted the National league with an abrupt thud. It was Lou Gehrig, Red Rolfe and Bill Dickey who drove in seven of the eight runs that mauled the National league, 8 to 3.

The noisy thunder from Yankee guns scored five runs off Dizzy Dean and Carl Hubbell, two of the game's greatest, in less than two innings. The National league sent Dean, Hubbell, Blanton, Grissom, Mungo and Walters to face American league bats, but, on this All-Star day, those who stuck around took a heavy hiding, one by one.

GEHRIG DRIVES IN FOUR.

Lou Gehrig alone, still wearing his armor of cast-iron hide, drove in four runs with a homer and a double. Red Rolfe drove in two more and Bill Dickey added another to prove once more the amount of dynamite packed in Yankee bats. After Gehrig's homer in the third had scored two runs off Dean, the next assault drove Carl Hubbell from the reservation in less than an inning, with three runs scored before Cy Blanton rushed to his rescue.

This blasting assault thrown at Dean and Hubbell broke up the ball game that, for the first five innings, was just another afternoon out in the sun. And the sun was hot enough to bake pretzels.

The National league had banked heavily on the winding right and left arms of Dizzy and Carl to carry the day. They made the mistake of leaving their rifles or machine guns behind. Dean and Gomez fought an even duel for two innings, but with two out in the third and Joe DiMaggio on base, Lou Gehrig lit the fuse to the first bomb. His homer carried the right field wall, with a dozen feet to spare, as it sailed from human sight.

The next shock came in the fourth inning, just a moment or two after Hubbell followed Dean. The tall left-hander came out to the cheers from 31,000 throats, but he left a few minutes later with the salvo of busy bats ringing in his ears. After West of the Browns had walked, Dickey singled, Rolfe tripled and Gehringer

EACH NINE GETS FIFTEEN BLOWS; END SET TONIGHT

Durham, Trexler Fail To Halt Pebbles; Leonard Hurls Ninth.

By BEN EPSTEIN.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 7. It was the Travelers who looked like champions tonight as they smothered the Atlanta Crackers, 13 to 6, to square the series here. Each side pounded out 15 base hits but six of the Travelers went for extra bases including three doubles and two triples.

Neither of the starting pitchers lasted more than an inning. Kola Sharpe and Bobby Durham being the victims. Byron Humphreys replaced Sharpe and stopped the Crackers. Jim Trexler who relieved Durham was everything but a puzzle. Dutch Leonard hurled the final for the Crackers. The teams finish the series here tomorrow night. Bob Porter or Jennings Poindexter likely will go for Little Rock with Larry Miller or Al Williams slated to hurl for the Crackers.

TWO IN FIRST.

The Crackers didn't waste any time scoring two runs in the first inning. Luby worked Sharpe for a pass and went to second when Mauldin singled past third. Hooks doubled to right, Luby scoring and Mauldin scoring at third. Griffiths threw out Rose as Mauldin scored. Mailho was an infield kill, and Hill, who singled off Sharpe's glove, was forced by Chatham.

Atlanta tied in the second to shell Sharpe off the hill. After Richards and Durham singled in succession, Kola was taken out for Humphreys. Luby forced Richards at third, Durham stopping at second. Mauldin forced Luby, Durham advancing, Hooks whacked his second double. Durham and Mauldin scoring. Rose singled to left but Hooks was out at the plate, Graham to Thompson.

Doc Prothro's playboys knocked Durham out in the second to score. Humphreys doubled and scored on Graham's single to right. Nonnenkamp sacrificed and when he was declared out, the fans booed Umpire Johnson.

After going scoreless in the third the champs tallied in the fourth. Trexler beat out a hit to Niemiec and moved up on Luby's infield out. Mauldin singled, Trexler taking third. Hooks fanned but Rose rammed a liner to right. Trexler registering and Mauldin taking third. Mailho lifted to Deni.

With two down in the sixth, Hooks singled off Liberto's glove and Ace Parker was inserted to run for him. Hooks limped badly from the fourth through the sixth innings. Apparently he injured his ankle

Lou Made Dream-Game A Nightmare for Dizzy

Home-Run Ball to Gehrig (Fast One—Inside) Made Dean Losing Pitcher.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(UP)—Today's dream game was a nightmare to Dizzy Dean. Just one crucial pitch to Lou Gehrig did it all. "Just one more pitch and I had them shut out," he moaned in the dressing room after the major league all-star game.

It was the last pitch to Gehrig, slugging American league first baseman, that spoiled Dean's dream of a three-inning shutout. COUNT 3 AND 2.

One more pitch and Dean would have been the hero of the day. Two were out in the American half of the third. The count on Gehrig was three balls and two strikes. Joe DiMaggio was on first base.

The 31,391 cash customers—President Roosevelt got in free—were on their feet yelling. Then there was a sudden hush. Dean threw his left foot high in the air and "gogged" one. Gehrig dropped his bat from his shoulder and met the ball with his 200-pounds behind the swing. It cleared a 30-foot wall 328 feet from home plate by 10 feet. Pandemonium broke loose.

Dean watched the ball disappear, shrugged, and turned to finish his chore after Gehrig had followed DiMaggio across the plate to break a 0-to-0 tie.

CHARGED WITH LOSS. Dean was charged with the National league defeat, on that one pitch to Gehrig. In the dressing room Dizzy was moaning. He said it was no exception himself, and he wasn't even cordial to himself. "It was the same pitch I struck sliding into home in the second. Parker took over the first base duties in the sixth. A roundelay of hits by Humphreys, Graham, Nonnenkamp, Tabor, Niemiec and Liberto fashioned five more for the Travelers, giving them a 13-to-6 lead. Ray Thompson batted twice in the inning for Little Rock.

The Crackers added their last run in the ninth, making the final score 13 to 6. Doc Prothro's playboys knocked Durham out in the second to score. Humphreys doubled and scored on Graham's single to right. Nonnenkamp sacrificed and when he was declared out, the fans booed Umpire Johnson.

After going scoreless in the third the champs tallied in the fourth. Trexler beat out a hit to Niemiec and moved up on Luby's infield out. Mauldin singled, Trexler taking third. Hooks fanned but Rose rammed a liner to right. Trexler registering and Mauldin taking third. Mailho lifted to Deni.

Brown Is Set For Dundee Fight

Ben Brown's tactics in the gymnasium as he trains for his important 10-round fight with Texas Joe Dundee at the ball park next Thursday night indicate he is planning a right-handed attack for the slugging Italian, and that the local middleweight expects a hard, rough battle.

Brown used his left almost exclusively in whipping Ray Lyle here several weeks ago, but it is his right that packs the most power. It is expected to be his main gun against Dundee, who hits equally well with either hand. Dundee, who fought two sensational draws here with Billy Hood, having whatever edge in these bouts that there was, is expected to arrive in the city Saturday. Texas Joe is in great shape. One of his recent victims was Lyle, and he whipped the Akron battler every bit as convincingly as did Brown.

In addition to the 10-round feature, Speer plans to offer three six-rounds and a four.

JORDAN MEETS ROSSI TONIGHT

Action aplenty is promised Avondale wrestling fans tonight when a well-balanced card will be presented by Matchmaker Nat Jones.

Tarzan Jordan, Atlanta star who has just returned from Boston, where he participated in some 15 matches with success, meets Count Petro Roggi, Italian powerhouse, in a 90-minute match, two out of three falls. Jordan, a local product who has made a name for himself in the wrestling industry, will be seeking revenge in this bout and local fans will see a new Jordan when he goes into action.

A suitable supporting match has been arranged where Frank Remille, Birmingham Terror, tackles Baron Karl von Hollman, Germany.

The opener should be a "honey" in itself. John Dameron, Kirkwood star, meets Pancho Villa, Mexico City. Pancho has never appeared here and will show the fans how they wrestle in Mexico. Hostilities get under way promptly at 8:30 p. m.

JORDAN SIGNED AT WEST END

Tarzan Ben Jordan, popular local wrestler who has just returned from Boston and New York on a wrestling tour, has been signed for a match with Jack Bloomfield at the West End arena Friday night.

POLICE ESCORT. "I want a police escort," Dean demanded. While a police escort formed, Dean continued his conversation with Dizzy.

"They shouldn't have beat us," he said. "Heck no, the best team didn't win. We should've beat them," Dizzy consoled.

By that time the escort was ready. Mr. Dean was still talking to Dizzy.

"It was the same one I fanned him on before and he..." The door was flung open.

"Hey, Dizzy, sign this will ya?"

Crackers Prove They Can Get Off the Floor

Sensational Rallies Stamp Atlanta as Team To Beat; Defeat Closest Rivals.

By JACK TROY.

The true test of a champion in any sport is the ability to come from behind and win.

That statement being infallibly true, Atlanta's Crackers have stamped themselves as the team to beat in the 1937 pennant race.

The question has been raised from time to time in other parts as to whether the Atlanta club has what it takes to come from behind and regain first place.

The question was predicated on the theory that each of the past two pennant winners, having got off to a big lead, never had to prove what they could do if the necessity arose for them to overcome a big lead to get back on top.

That has been rather well answered now. Of course, the Crackers aren't back in the lead yet. But they have done everything else necessary to convince one and all that they are composed of the stuff of which champions are made.

There is not the slightest question now that the Atlanta club is the strongest in the Southern league.

Because they have done their greatest work of the season against what are popularly regarded as the one-two teams.

WRECKED MEMPHIS. They wrecked Memphis with a ninth-inning rally that really got under way with two men out. Four more runs were required for a tie. They got them and went on to win in the tenth.

This happened at home.

Business men are becoming more exacting in truck purchases because operating costs in all departments of business are rapidly mounting. To pre-measure a truck's operating expenses is now good judgment and often avoids unnecessary losses. GMC, priced low at the outset, designed and built for long life at low cost upkeep, and famous for gas and oil economy, fits the careful business budget. We publish these facts because thousands of owners have proved them in every kind of haulage service. Another reason for GMC savings is that GMC's are fitted right to every trucking operation before they are delivered. The "GMC Truck Selector" assures that—and GMC's complete line of 1/2 to 12 tons makes available the unit prescribed for your service. GMC prices are now crowding the lowest!

Big Ed Dudley Snoots 700 for 2nd Lead in British Open

SMITH, GULDHAL SLIP WITH 77'S; SARAZEN HAS 81

Augustan Only American Within First Five at End of Initial Round.

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, July 7. (AP)—Ed Dudley, the big, plaid Georgian who splits his professional duties between Augusta and Philadelphia, hobbled over wind-west Carnoustie's "bonny braes" in 70 strokes today to take a two-shot lead in the first round of the British open golf championship.

Suffering a painful jab each time he swung onto his injured left foot, the American beat Carnoustie's grudging par by a stroke and thus saved the American invaders from a minor rout.

Nevertheless, Dudley pulled on his brightest blue trousers and brightest blue sweater and, while the main gallery was running after Walter Hagen, shot the first nine in 34, two under par, and coasted home in 36 against the wind.

In a day full of major United States tragedies, in which extravagant Gene Sarazen soared to an 81, and medalist Horton Smith and American Open Champion Ralph Guldahl took 77's, Dudley was the only foreign player in the field of 141 starters to land in the first five.

Two strokes back came four Britons, chief of whom was Alf Padgham, the man who won last year but was off his game so badly that he had slipped back to a 30-1 shot when play in the championship proper began this morning.

The other three were Bill Branch, who won the British open in 1936; Willie McEwen, pro champion of western Scotland in 1924 and 1929, and Reginald Whitcombe, veteran English internationalist whose last major triumph was scored in the 1936 Irish open.

Denny Shute, two-time P. G. A. winner, and last American to take this title, in 1933, slipped in a stroke in back of these four, along with Charles A. Whitcombe, captain of the British cup squad; Jack Taylor, who is known here mainly as the man who uses the lightest clubs in big-time golf; Fred Robertson and A. D. Cairncross.

Henry Cotton, England's hope and all-around ace; Jim Adams, the Scottish favorite; Bobby Locke, youthful South African amateur, Bill Cox and two others were grouped at 74 before the United States placed another man.

Eyvion Nelson and Sam Snead, as well as Robert Sweeney, New York-born Londoner who holds the British amateur title, and six Britons got around in the face of the bitter-cold wind in 75. Hagen, Henry Picard, Johnny Revolta and Big Charles Lacey, of Great Neck, N. Y., were a shot further back, N. Y. were a shot further back, N. Y. were a shot further back.

BLACK CRACKERS BATTLE TIGERS

The Black Crackers play Cincinnati's Tigers here tonight at Ponce de Leon park at 8:30. The Black Crackers have James Kemp at second base and lead-off. Kemp is an all-southern football star and a good basketball player, but his greatest work in athletics is that of a second baseman. Jack Thornton, first baseman, is considered the best fielder in town and is a good hitter. James Green, who has caught 59 of 68 games played by the Black Crackers this season, is in the best of condition and has caught 14 home runs this season.

The series will be the first to be played by the locals with the Ohio boys and is the opening of the second half of the Negro American league, of which the Black Cracker club is now a member. The visitors are members of the league and are in second place, with Chicago being first.

Some of the stars of the visitors' club are Pee Wee Carter, third base; Howard Eastland, shortstop; Porter Moss, subma-line pitcher; Neal Robinson, speedy center-fielder and home run hitter Double Duty Ratcliff and Jelly Taylor. A special section of the grandstand will be reserved for the white people.

BARONS WIN.

Winning their second game in as many starts, the Royal Barons, sandlot baseball team, defeated the West End Cubs, 6 to 3, yesterday afternoon at Maddox park.

BRUSH UP YOUR KNOWLEDGE

The man or woman who has facts at his command can think, talk, and show to better advantage than one who has not. Here is an educational packet of six of our Washington Service Bureau's Booklets. A few minutes a day spent with them will richly repay you. The titles are:

1. Constitution of the U. S.
2. Correct English
3. Favorite Poems
4. Bible Facts

BREAK O' DAY

comes on, voices and spirits become brighter and it is time for the evening program.

Last night it was hide and go seek. There were just the two ships, the Decatur and the Dickerson, carrying the Tech unit back home. The others from Yale and Harvard and Northwestern had gone toward their own ports.

THE WINKING LIGHTS.

The winking lights from the flagship spelled out instructions. Commodore Nelson Goss had ordered a night search. And so just before dark, the Decatur steamed off over the horizon and, at last, night fell. And then came the cryptic order—"Darken ship."

There is a thrill in that. The lights all go out and your ship becomes a dark black shape moving along through the sea. The wash of water from the bows takes on a sinister sound and the sea becomes a place of mystery.

You steam on until the appointed minute and then the ship turns. The other fellow is hunting you, you are hunting him, and you are two steel ships. The lookouts crowd to the windows and the rail. There is not a single light, only the dark shape moving through the night.

A little bit of imagination will help out. You have only to imagine that the ship you are hunting is an enemy and that if he sees you first, he will shoot first. And that will, with the night and the stillness and darkness, make your spine crawl a little bit.

Eyes stare out into the night at the vague horizon until they ache and begin to see dozens of destroyers slipping through the dark gloom.

That's how we waited. The time almost was when across the water a search light stabbed the night and caught us. Some faint glow aft in our ship had given us away and the light was full on us. It looked like a giant headlight of a train and the ship seemed almost on us. Immediately our lights had picked it out and there she was, a half mile across the water.

That was the game, and until you have played hide and seek in destroyers, you really haven't played hide and seek.

GOING TO THE MOVIES.

Most nights there are movies on board. There isn't much room on a destroyer, but there is a section called the well deck and there is room to play the screen, which is about a third the size of the one in your favorite movie house. The boys sit on deck. The rays of light from the machine go over their heads and now and then the screen sees a sailor's head and hat suddenly bob into the middle of some exciting love scene as one of the boys changes positions.

It is a very strange movie house. Just over the side there are the stars and the lights of the accompanying ships. And there is the sound of the blowers in the engine room and the washing sound of the sea as it comes back in salty white plumes from the bow. In such a setting, the actors and actresses play their parts and talk and laugh.

The strangest night of all was one going south. There was a heavy sea and great sheets of spray would go sweeping past the sides and part of it would come over the rails and a yell would go up from the crowd on deck as they got a wetting. It was a very bizarre setting for a movie. It was Jack Holt in "Crash Donovan" and it was a bit difficult to hear the dialogue because of the crash of the sea against the ship. The sea crashed more than Crash Donovan.

AND SO TODAY.

And so the days went on. The Decatur's crew of Tech men had won most of the honors, but the Dickerson's half of the unit had performed well, too, and all of them had learned a lot about themselves, about the sea and about ships. And each is better prepared for becoming a better citizen and a better American.

And so today we came up past the lightship and dropped anchor off the Georgia coast some 30 miles out to sea. They are going to get this in by the ship's wireless to a shore station and then to The Constitution.

Tomorrow there is to be the last of the program, some tests in seamanship, and then on Thursday morning early the ships will dock at Savannah. And the cruise will be at an end.

This afternoon there is a holiday, with much reading and some efforts at fishing, but no swimming; the sea is crowded with jellyfish. Looking over the rail, one may see literally hundreds of them drifting by like small inverted parachutes.

It has been a very fine cruise. Commodore Nelson Goss, Captain J. A. Waters, of the Decatur, and Captain V. F. Rathburn, of the Dickerson, and their staffs, have made it a great success. There has not been a bit of illness and the units are coming home browner, happier and very eager to get home to a bed that doesn't roll and a table where the dishes don't slide.

Dixsteel Rallies To Beat Buford

Dixsteel rallied in the ninth inning yesterday and defeated Buford, 7 to 6. Going into the ninth inning one run behind, Cole went in to pinch hit for Hasty and singled to left, Gardner was out and Spurlin doubled down the right-field line sending Cole to third.

Cole Jeter, Buford right-hander, was removed from the mound and Nix replaced him. Shepherd was walked intentionally, filling the bases. Mayo went in to pinch hit for Belcher and singled sharply to center, scoring Cole and Spurlin for the tying and winning runs.

Dixsteel will journey to Buford tonight to meet the Shoemakers in the seventh game of their current series of games, each having won three games.

LUTRELL BEATS OKLAHOMA STAR IN MAIN MATCH

Kirchmyer Wins Five-Second Fall Before Cowboy Opens Up.

Roland Kirchmyer won a fall over Cowboy Luttrell in record time last night at the ball park, but lost the next two falls and the match to the fouling Texan despite a fine exhibition that deserved a more favorable result.

Charging out of his corner in the first fall before the amazed Luttrell could hardly take a step forward, Kirchmyer executed a beautiful flying scissor to bring down his man for perhaps the quickest fall on record here. It didn't take the former Olympic grappler more than two seconds to bring down the villain and his shoulders had to be down for three seconds, which means that the entire fall lasted only five seconds.

Luttrell, more careful, worked himself into position to use some of his underhanded methods in the second fall and after 17 minutes had succeeded in mauling and choking the Oklahoman to the mat.

The third fall was particularly wild and vicious with Luttrell being on the outside of the ring about as much as in it. Once Kirchmyer had him pinned, but he managed to edge his shoulders outside the ropes. Doc Lanford again riled the fans when he let Luttrell get away with bloody murder in winning the finale. "I reckon I'll have to referee for a while," Promoter Frank Speer said after the match. "This Luttrell is just getting away with too much."

The preliminaries made the feature match look good. No one passed out from excitement or anything like that.

Emer Guthrie, veteran Texan, defeated Eddie Newman, St. Louis, in two out of three falls. Big Boy Nelson, a head-shaven husky from Montreal, crushed Nick Ellich in the opener after 24 minutes.

Mason and Hill Beat Bledsoe-Alten

Wednesday at Kennolia witnessed the best match of the tournament so far in the victory eeked out by Wink Mason, teamed with Dan Hill, over Jack Bledsoe playing with Allen, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Hank Crawford and Bud Lindy defeated Slaughter and Maddox, 6-4, 6-3. Red Hill and Glenn Dudley played championship tennis in eliminating Cortez Suttles and Moody, 6-3, 6-4. Manly defaulted to Chambers and Gault.

Hatches for Thursday are as follows:
Hill and Dudley vs. Zuber and Howard, 6 o'clock.
Mason and Hill vs. Crawford-Lindy, 6:30 o'clock.
Duncan-Brown vs. Chambers-Gault, 6:30 o'clock.
Kennedy-Alexander vs. Reese-Boulware, 6:30 o'clock.

CRACKERS SHOW COMEBACK FIGHT

baseball, else the bases be loaded under similar circumstances with four runners ready to tie.

At any rate, the Crackers needed three and it was a spot to test the courage of any man to the limit.

Hooks connected, drove in the needed runs and demoralized the Travelers. It took the starch out of them because, with two out, Eddie Rose successfully executed the squeeze play to score Hooks with the winning run.

Just as the Crackers wrung the heart out of Memphis, they knocked the fight out of Little Rock. Malho also bunted and beat it out.

Then Johnny Hill, who twice had come through, tripled to put the game beyond recall.

WIN OR LOSE.
All this is recounted simply to show, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that Atlanta has the championship team regardless of whether they win the state straight bunting or not. The odds are, however, that they will win.

A team capable of staging such courageous finishes in the face of desperate odds is the team to beat.

Great finishes are nothing new to the two-time champions, but in the past they have made them from the advantage of top position and not down as far as third place fighting for the lead.

And it will bear repeating that they are doing their greatest work against the teams they must beat to win. That's the pay-off.

Eight Crackers Hitting Above .300.

It is very pleasing to scan the batting averages of the Atlanta Crackers. There are eight regulars hitting above .300. The ninth regular, Buster Chatham, should be hitting 1,000 the way he has been delivering in the clutch. However, his average is only .280.

Johnny Hill's sensational rise leaves him only eight points behind Emil Malho, Cracker leader. Hill is hitting an even .350.

Here's how the others are hitting: Luby, .321; Hooks, .317; Galvin, .317; Richards, .314; Mauldin, .302; Rose, .284.

In the case of Rose, however, his record with both New Orleans and Atlanta is included. He is hitting well above .300 with the Crackers and is the league leader in runs batted in with 65.

Leo Moon is third among the league pitchers and the Cracker team is the league batting leader.

THE SPORT LIGHT

singled—and that was the end of a far from perfect day. Neither Dean nor Hubbell looked up to peak form. Later on, the same set of American league bats hammered three runs from the systems of Grissom and Mungo, where Gehrig's long double with two on was the final touch.

GOMEZ STARS ON MOUND.
Gomez allowed only a lone single while he was in action, and he was easily the pitching star of the afternoon. The wiry left-hander had his fast ball under perfect control and his curve was bridging like a roller-coaster.

Bridges and Harder, who followed him, had their soft spots, but they were stalking their prey on velvet, with a five-run lead and nothing to worry about.

Outside of Dean and Hubbell, who suffered somewhat heavily, there were no particular goats. Joe DiMaggio was below his season's form with two strikeouts, but, in spite of this, he turned a home run, and a great throw from right field that just pinned Bartell at the plate.

The two leading airties were Gehrig and Joe Medwick. Gehrig's two long blows broke up the ball game. They were like a pair of explosions under the right and left jaws. Ducky Joe Medwick set out early to prove and just how he is hitting 400 in his own league.

Out of five trips to the plate, he nailed two singles and two doubles, getting these in an unbroken row. And they were all hit directly in the middle of the seams.

It was Medwick's first double that scored the National league's first run in the fourth. It was Ott's pinch double that scored the second National league tally, and it was Medwick again in the sixth who started another run-making rally. As it was, the National league side ran up a harvest of 13 hits, but they were badly scattered and lacked the blasting power poured in from American league bats.

PUNCH BEATS PITCHING.
On this occasion at least, American league punch beat it all over National league pitching, which was supposed to be the main argument at hand. And the greater part of American league power came from the war clubs swung by the Yankee contingent who kept their salvo going all afternoon. No one who saw this ball game could deny the tremendous strength the New York American league outfit carries to the wars. It is still the dominating ball club working under the big tent.

GEHRIG LEADS AMERICAN NINE TO 8-3 VICTORY

Lou Bats in Four Runs; Medwick Sets Record; Diz Loser.

double and drove in one run. Red Rolfe hit a single and triple, and drove in two runs.

The Yankees drove in seven of the eight American league runs. The Yanks scored five of the eight American league runs.

Joe DiMaggio broke up a threatening National league rally with a rifle throw to the plate to cut a run.

DIZ MAKES MISTAKE.
Dizzy Dean, who had not been "shanghaied" into pitching in the game, made the first fatal mistake for the National league. Maybe Dizzy knew something after all when he tried to withdraw from the game. Anyway, his record of always coming through dramatically in a pinch was shattered when he left the mound after pitching the first three frames.

Dean, who was intermittently cheered and booed, almost got by with a runless performance. He had two out and two strikes on the Yankees when he was pulled.

Then, with the count 3-2, Dean blazed up his fast ball to Gehrig. Lou swung from the hip, and hit the ball over the right field wall, 328 feet away. It cleared the 30-foot fence by 10 feet, scoring DiMaggio, who had singled, ahead of him.

MEDWICK HERO.
The National league hero in defeat was Joe (Ducky) Medwick, the Cardinals' swashbuckling outfielder, who set a new all-star record for hits by slamming out four consecutive safeties—two doubles and two singles—in five times at bat. It was the first time any player had made more than three hits, and only one, Al Simmons, had ever made that many before.

HARDER FINISHES.
Mel Harder, Cleveland right-hander who pitched the last three frames, was rapped for five hits, but the National league couldn't score. Altogether, the National league left 11 men stranded on base. Even in the ninth after Vaughan and Medwick had singled, Demaree weakly rolled out to end the game.

The play that hurt the National league most was when Burgess Whitehead, Giants, running for Hartnett, who had singled, was thrown out at the plate in the sixth. The National league trailed, 6-3, and had runners on first and second when Rip Collins came up as a pinch hitter. He singled sharply to right, and Whitehead attempted to score. DiMaggio made a fast play on the ball and rifled a throw to Dickey. It was high but the Yankees' catcher pulled it down, and had Whitehead by 10 feet. That killed off a dangerous threat and the American leaguers went on to build up their lead and beat back all other National league rallies.

CHICKS 5; LOOKOUTS 4.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 7.—The Chattanooga Lookouts, who were Chick today, but lost their second game of the series.

The Lookouts collected ten hits off Mike McQuinn, who pitched for the Braves. Phil Spencer relieved Martyn in the eighth as Chattanooga threatened to tie the game.

FORGET YOU NEVER

By MARGARET GORMAN NICHOLS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFEE.

Eden Carver, pretty young Baltimore manicurist, and her widowed mother Edna had been married to the late Edna old-fashioned because she's careful about the boys she goes with. Dee, second child Charles Larimore, is married Brad Dunning, young insurance agent. Eden now has an extra son, William Nolan invites Brad and Dee to a dance at his home to welcome back Neil Dane who served three years in South America. Eden knows at once that Neil is real money, so she takes him as the captain of a freighter and, except for one year at a summer camp when David said he was going to marry her, Eden has been in love with him since the first day. The next day he sends orchids and takes her to dinner. He can never marry, he says, until he gets his extra wife, which is at home for her roving husband. When David comes home after his year away for bridge at his home, Neil hurries out but returns, telling himself it does love Eden. David is a rich fellow, and when the wealthy Larimore will marry her, David will have a chance at his home, but she does not see Neil. Mrs. Carver's cousin Kay, a widow, asks her to take care of her little nephew, Vicky while she tries out a new job. Larimore tells her to go to the office with him, with Joanna King, Thelma's twin sister. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT VIII

"She's a sweet, serious little person," Edna said. "I've never seen like the last time I saw her."

Brad left early. Her kitchen immaculate again, Mrs. Carver came into the living room and settled herself in the deep chair to do her mending. Curled up on the plum-colored sofa, Eden listened to music from the radio.

"Did you see David today?" her mother asked.

"Yes," she smiled slightly. "Do you think I see him every day?"

Mrs. Carver's eyes crinkled. "I didn't know." Then, seriously, she said, "He loves you."

Eden frowned. "Love isn't simple any more, Mother. It's complicated. If only you knew what the other people are thinking. And there are people for you and against you." Thelma King, she thought, who loved David and who had quarreled with him the night of his party. "I used to think it was simple, too."

Later, in bed, she was staring into space when the door opened, letting in a panel of light, and Dee came in.

"Asleep, Eden?"

"No." Sitting up, she turned on the lamp beside the bed.

Wearing her short squirrel jacket with garnishes pinned to the lapel, and a small black hat with a rhinestone clip, Dee sat on the bed, pulled the glove from her left hand. A wide diamond bracelet, loose on her slender wrist, caught the light.

"Charles asked me to marry him tonight," Dee said breathlessly. "Have you ever seen anything so magnificent as this bracelet? We're going to be married in a few weeks and go on a trip around the world! Think of—all the places I've been dying to see!"

Touching the glittering band of jewels, Eden was thinking of the night Dee had awakened her and said, "I'm going to marry Brad, darling! I'm going to give up my job bad be Brad's wife and encourage him to sell a lot of life insurance!"

"That's fine," Eden said quietly. She looked at her steadily.

Quickly Dee arose and went to the door. If only Eden would look at that face, that smile, could not deceive her. And outside the door of Eden's room she drew in her lips and bit down on them, determined not to cry, determined not to let Eden's polite disapproval and all the true things Brad had said destroy her feeling of triumph.

The next day Eden saw Thelma King come into the shop and sit at Betty's table.

But it was not Thelma. Eden had mistaken Joanna, Thelma's twin sister, of her.

Glancing up from her work, Eden saw a finely chiseled features of the girl she believed to be Thelma King. Her mahogany-colored hair beneath a small black turban was arranged in small tight curls. She had thrown her black coat with a large silver fox collar carelessly over the chair. Her neck and blouse were touched with white at the neck and sleeves.

Then Eden saw her turn her head and look directly at her and smile. Eden's mouth curved into her charming smile, but she was puzzled. "She's friendly now," she thought. "The night of David's party she made me feel as if I didn't belong."

Curiosity had brought Joanna King, having heard Thelma say repeatedly and with bitter jealousy, "David's in love with her. He hasn't called me in weeks. And Neil's in love with her, too. You can't meet her if you go to the hotel. She's much too attractive to be missed."

More than attractive, Joanna thought now. Eden Carver was beautiful. Neil had spoken very little of her but Joanna, loving him, knowing him long and well, guessed that it was peculiar to her ears for Eden that he would not speak to her.

Her nails finished, she drew the black coat around her and went into the lobby where Neil was to meet her for lunch. He was waiting, smoking.

"Hello," Joanna said. "I was early and I went in for a manicure and couldn't get one without an appointment." Then she said, "I saw Eden Carver and she thought I was Thelma because she smiled at me. I've never met her, you know." And she searched his brown face to see if Eden's name altered it.

But he smiled. "Somebody ought to be something about you and Thelma. You're going to get yourself mixed up one of these days. You should wear an initial on your sleeve."

"It would spoil the fun," Joanna said. "We've had some amusing things happen to us because people are afraid we might be. So they would be see Eden, Neil wondered. She was behind those closed doors. "Funny," he thought, walking beside Joanna into the dining room. "I forget faces. I've met so many people. But Eden's face is as clear as if I'd seen it only yesterday. I've kept her in my mind along with myself. I've stayed away. Dave's been seeing her."

She had cared, he knew, though he had tried to deny it. Eden had cared, deeply and passionately. A man knew when strong feelings were mutual. "By now," he thought, "she knows I wasn't a lucky night the night she met me."

Throwing off her coat, Joanna clasped her hands and asked for a cigarette.

"It's like old times, lunching with you here, Neil. It doesn't seem possible that it was three years ago. I went to New York for a reason. To get a job. I don't want to go to New York these days." She smiled. "I'm going to pose for photographs for advertisements. They tell me I'm not bad to look at and the camera has always flattered me." Lifting her lashes slowly, she looked at him. "But I'm not going back—back—back. As long as you're here, I want to be here."

Holding a match to her cigarette he said, "One of the strangest cases I ever ran into is that you and Thelma are twin sisters and yet as completely unlike as two people can be. You got all the good, Joanna. You're going to New York to go to work. What's Thelma doing to help out?"

"Nothing. She thinks my plans are a disgrace, and I think it's fun to work. Besides, she doesn't want to get very far away from David." Looking down, she said, low, "We're alike in one respect, Neil. We—we stay faithful. Thelma to David, I to you. My being in love with you and staying in love with you makes me feel as if I've tried to be—well, a good pal and not bring that up."

He put his hand over hers. "I think you're swell. It does embarrass me. It makes me feel small and unworthy. But we've gone into that a good many times, haven't we?"

She nodded. "And I know all the answers. In the first place, you don't love me and in the second you say you'll never marry. I didn't mean to get serious, Neil. Let's talk about something else."

"Thinking of Eden, he asked, "What would happen to Thelma if David married her Carver?"

She opened her eyes wide. "I don't know, Neil! But I think it would nearly kill her! She's jealous now, horribly jealous. But she insists he won't marry a girl he'll be ashamed of. I saw Eden Carver and I don't think any one could be ashamed of her. You don't think..."

"I do. But not soon." After he went back, after Eden knew he never meant to see her again, and David filled every free moment of her life, a stout white envelope would reach him in Venezuela. He said nothing about bringing sun opening that envelope, sealing her name and David's name... The one girl he would never forget...

Eden was coming in from lunch when she saw Neil and Joanna walking towards her, and they did not stop to greet her because they were looking at each other. There was no way to avoid them.

Neil's eyes seemed to look through her as she passed them pulled her mouth into a smile, and said, "Hello," and went on, not daring to look back, but wanting to... just to see him again. Neil said nothing, but he brought her street clothes into her white uniform, her hands shook. When had that begun—Neil and Thelma? Since David had been calling her Eden? But perhaps she had been mistaken in thinking that Thelma cared for David. Perhaps not. Since Neil all the time. Touching her flushed face with her hand she thought, "Dee is going to marry Charles Larimore. She's kidding herself into believing she's happy. Brad is so broken he can't work. David is coming to live with us. Vicky is in love with me and now to try to see Neil and Thelma together."

Outside the hotel, Neil said, "I'm going to see some friends I haven't seen since I've been back Joanna." Seeing Eden coming towards him had shaken him. Eden said, "And I'm going home," Joanna said, smiling, and went into the house with a book on my head. That's supposed to make you walk gracefully. It bores Thelma terribly. She just stays home and waits for David to telephone her and he hasn't called her in weeks. She's getting desperate and when she gets desperate, you need to know what she'll do to you." She laid her hand on his brown sleeve. "Call me soon, and thanks for my lunch." She smiled. "You and I, Neil, are probably the only case on record where a man and a girl really understand each other."

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT INSECTS.

When we speak of an ear, we think of it as being in the head. That is quite true in the case of mammals, or furry animals. In the insect world, however, we find ears in different parts of the body. The cricket's ears are located in the forelegs. Near the main bend of each foreleg is a tiny ear of oval shape, and tests have shown that sound waves go into it, and cause a membrane to vibrate. Nerves tell the cricket about the sound.

aid tubes take fresh air into their bodies, and force out the used-up air. These tubes have small branches which reach to many places.

Scientists do not class spiders as insects. Insects have their bodies divided into three main parts, but spiders have bodies with only two main parts. Spiders have eight legs, but insects have only six.

Ants and bees are the chief "social insects," though some kinds of wasps are social in their habits. Social insects live together in colonies, helping one another. They make sure that the queens and the young in their colonies are well fed and cared for.

Ants have been said to "hold funerals." They do carry the dead out of their nests, but the reason seems to be only a desire to keep the nests clean. During the coming week, we shall have a series on ants, telling of amazing things which have been learned about their habits.

Insects can be called "both friends and foes of mankind." Some kinds are of great service in taking pollen from flowering plants, and placing it in other plants. Honey and silk are two important products of insects which have proved useful to the human race.

On the other hand, many kinds of insects are a great trouble to us. They spread disease and damage crops.

CONGRESS' FAVOR SEEN FOR FLOOD CONTROL MEASURE

President's Veto, However,
Hinted for $105,000,000
Curb Measure.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(AP)—A $105,000,000 flood control program appeared likely today to win congressional approval, but there was talk that it might be vetoed by President Roosevelt.

Senate and house conferees agreed on a $194,000,000 appropriation to finance nonmilitary activities of the War Department during the fiscal year which began last Thursday. The sum agreed upon includes $105,000,000 for flood control.

Senators who declined to be quoted by name predicted the President would veto the measure because of the size of the flood control item.

The house rules committee, meantime, gave preferred status to bills which would authorize $24,877,000 of protective work for cities in the lower Ohio river basin and ask the War Department to submit a national flood control program supplementing its previous recommendations.

Chairman Whittington, Democrat, Mississippi, of the house flood control committee, said no appropriation for the $24,877,000 of projects is contemplated this session because President Roosevelt has expressed the intention to make available approximately half of the total for relief funds.

Flood wall and drainage projects to be authorized for the lower Ohio will be chosen by army engineers, Whittington said, from a list on which 155 communities are represented.

HUNT INTENSIFIES FOR FIEND KILLER

Burly, Broadshouldered Man Seen Dumping Heavy Bundle Into River.

CLEVELAND, July 7.—(UP)—Police tonight sought a broadshouldered, burly man as Cleveland's fiendish "head-hunter" after they had fished from the Cuyahoga river more parts of the tenth carved victim of "the mad butcher of Kingsbury Run."

Detective Sergeant James Hogan, who has met failure in his 33-month chase after the surgically skilled and sex-perverted murderer, took from the waters today the hands and forearms of the victim.

Head Still Missing.
These parts, and the left calf and foot found early today, were discovered floating near the West Third street bridge where yesterday the upper and lower trunk sections, the upper legs, and one upper arm section were found. The head still was missing.

Police said the heart, liver and other vital organs had been neatly carved from the body, as if by an anatomist.

Only two of the victims, whose bodies have left a grisly trail in lonely Kingsbury Run, on the lake front, and on gulleys terrain on the west side since September, 1936, have been identified.

Fingerprints Blurred.
Hope that the latest victim might be identified dimmed when George Koestle, identification bureau head, announced fingerprints on the severed hands were blurred by decomposition.

What might be the description of the mad butcher was obtained from a bridge tender who said he saw an unshaven man walk onto the bridge Friday night and throw a large bundle into the river.

"He was a burly man," the tender said. "He appeared to be about 40 years old and about five feet, six or seven inches tall. He needed a shave. He weighed about 145 or 150 pounds."

MRS. MARY HARRIS

SUCCUMBS IN ROME

ROME, Ga., July 7.—Mrs. Mary Harris, 77, widow of the late Judge G. A. Harris, died here this afternoon after three years' illness.

She was a daughter of the late John Edward and Harriet Austin Diden. She was the oldest charter member of Trinity Methodist church, built by the late evangelist, Sam P. Jones.

Surviving her are five sons and three daughters, including Norris Harris and Mrs. John Fuss, of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be held Friday.

FILM TEST ENTRY TO SING IN EAST

Boy of 11 Will Leave for New York Today.

Eleven-year-old Madison Vann, of Clarkston, Ga., an entrant in The Constitution movie talent hunt, is leaving today for New York to sing at Radio City over a national hookup.

Madison was "discovered" by Miss Arva Jackson, who lost no time in entering him in the movie talent hunt. She recognized his possibilities when she heard him sing once quite by accident, and he has been her protégé ever since.

Madison was chosen winner over all Georgia contestants in a series of broadcasts conducted by a local radio station. He will try for a part in The Constitution's movie talent try-outs on his return from New York.

Madison, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Vann, of Clarkston, has studied voice since he was six.

SOVIET POLAR CAMP—(By Radio to Moscow)—July 7.—(AP)—Low hanging clouds and fog cut the visibility today to a scant 100 yards. The temperature was just freezing, 32 degrees above zero Fahrenheit.

'New Music Peculiar to the South' Being Developed by Tri-Staters

Majority of Selections Used by Singing Convention Will Include Standard Church Hymns of Tomorrow, Leader Declares.

IRON CITY, Ga., July 7.—(AP)—J. C. Moore, president of the Tri-State Singing Convention, said today the group is using "a very new music peculiar to the south."

He predicted many of the songs used "will be standard church hymns of generations to follow." Moore, a Baptist minister, already is looking forward to the next meeting of the singing convention in May, 1938, at Bainbridge, Ga. Last month about 6,000 singers and song writers convened for a two-day affair at the armory building in Dothan, Ala. Every thing year they meet at Tallahassee, Fla.

Back from a revival meeting in Florida, Moore said the Tri-State Singing Convention uses distinctly new songs. He said only two songs at the Dothan convention during the two days of singing had been published more than a year.

Moore said the group he heads, which was organized six years ago, is one of the largest gatherings of its kind in the world.

Unlike some conventions of southern singers, the Tri-Staters do not use old-fashioned "fasola" shape-note song books and the singing method which calls for the song first to be sung by note and then by word.

Instrumental accompaniment (a piano, sometimes an orchestra group) is used to help keep the tri-state singers on the right pitch. Moore is a graduate of Mercer University. He said many city and circuit court judges, ministers and legislators take part in the activities of the Tri-State convention.

Moore, who is also president of the Southern Singers' Association, announced a meeting of that body for convention singing at Albany, Ga., Sunday, July 17.

HARTSFIELD SIGNS COUNCIL'S PAPERS

Action Withheld on Whitehall Extension Rights-of-Way Payment.

All papers passed Tuesday by city council, with the exception of one authorizing payment for rights of way for the extension of Whitehall street, had been approved by Mayor Hartsfield yesterday afternoon.

The mayor signed the ordinance allowing the Georgia Power Company to reroute the Pine-Cooper street bus line through Techwood and to abandon the Luckie street car line. The new bus route will follow the same streets out Pine street, N. E., but will make a loop over Cain, Techwood drive, Pine, Luckie and Hemphill to Fourteenth street to give passenger service to Techwood residents. The Cooper street buses will have an in-town terminus at Broad and Mitchell streets, circling back over the old route.

Funds for widening Twelfth street between Juniper and Peachtree, repairs to the social disease hospital, and to provide vacations for Grady hospital, Battle Hill sanitarium, and the Public Works Department employees were included in a series of finance papers he signed.

Hartsfield said he was waiting to confer with City Comptroller B. Graham West before approving the Whitehall street extension paper. It authorizes payment of $18,400 to owners of property who agreed to give right of way for the street extension. A fund of $39,000 was set aside for this project in 1936.

Georgia Scouts Greet President, Senator George

WASHINGTON, July 7.—Georgia Boy Scouts remained on the jamboree grounds late this afternoon to welcome both the President of the United States and their senior senator, Walter F. George.

The President, honorary Scout leader, toured the encampment on both sides of the Potomac river later, stopping four times to receive the salutes and cheers of hundreds of the youths in khaki shorts.

He stopped before a Scout-made reproduction of his Hyde Park, N. Y., home and greeted 35 "troopers" from his home county of Dutchess.

Senator George paid a call on each one of his state's Scout troops and shook hands with many of the youngsters, all of whom said "We have had one grand time at this our first jamboree."

"I can't imagine a more perfect or historic setting for a gathering of Scouts than the banks of the Potomac river," the Georgia senator said. "Every youngster in the camp seemed to be supremely happy and they were a unit in praising the Scout general staff and all governmental agencies which co-operated in making the jamboree a success."

THEN FLEE IN EMANUEL

SWAINSBORO, Ga., July 7.—(AP)—George Sumner, a dairyman, reported to Sheriff P. L. Yeomans, of Emanuel county, he saw two men burning convict suits near here today.

The men—a negro and a white man—fled in an automobile at his approach, Sumner said. Sheriff Yeomans said no convicts had escaped from the Emanuel county chain gang.

$1,000,000 ASKED TO FIGHT CANCER

Medical Experts Assemble To Spur Passage of Bone Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 7.—(UP)—Medical experts from many parts of the country gathered tonight for a meeting to give impetus to the Bone bill to grant $1,000,000 annually in federal aid to science in its battle against cancer.

Commerce committees of both senate and house will take up in joint session the bill conceived by Senator Homer T. Bone, Democrat, Washington. In the house, Representative Maury Maverick, Democrat, Texas, is sponsoring a similar bill.

Under provision of the Bone bill the $1,000,000 subsidy would be placed at the disposal of the United States public health service to "study and investigate the cause, treatment and prevention" of cancer and to "co-operate with state boards of health for the prevention, control and eradication" of the disease.

The health service could also make grants-in-aid to schools, hospitals, laboratories and scientific investigators to promote the cause of cancer control.

If reported favorably by the committee, the measure has the immediate approval of the senate by virtue of the fact that 95 senators attached their names to it as co-sponsors when it was introduced, an action unprecedented in senate history.

The bill has attracted world-wide attention, Bone said. Letters have been received from many European countries and even from South Africa urging its passage, he said.

The measure would more than double the amount now available for specialized cancer research throughout the world.

ZOO GETS ELECTRIC EEL.
PHILADELPHIA, July 7.—(AP)—An emergency crew from the city electrical bureau, was called upon today to transfer a South American eel from its traveling tank to the aquarium. The eel, a gift to the zoo, is reputed to paralyze its prey by electric shock.

Entire Illinois Town Will Migrate To Escape Path of Future Floods

Oldest Settlement in State, Twice Swept by Disastrous Floods, Soon to Move Lock, Stock and Barrel to Safety on Higher Ground.

SHAWNEETOWN, Ill., July 7.—(AP)—Residents of old Shawneetown packed lock, stock and barrel today for a mass migration.

The oldest town in Illinois and its 1,400 citizens are going to move to a new site three miles to the west and 400 feet above sea level—out of the path of Ohio river floods that twice inundated the community in the past 25 years.

The relocation, scheduled to start this month and estimated to require two years, marked the first attempt to transplant a city of its size.

The ambitious project had its inception last winter. The waters of two overburdened streams, the Ohio and the Wabash, merging several miles upstream, coursed through the streets.

President Roosevelt suggested centers repeatedly ravaged by floods be moved to higher ground. Shawneetown acted. A sector near the high school was chosen. It is 25 to 50 feet above the unprecedented levels reached by the disastrous inundation.

Purchase of the site was made possible by an appropriation of $150,000 to the Illinois department of public works. It will be used to buy the old settlement and convert it to a state park.

The Gallatin County Housing Authority then will acquire the new plot through mutual agreements with landowners or condemnation proceedings. The Authority will deed lots in the new settlement to Shawneetown property holders on a basis of comparative values.

The financial assistance of various federal agencies has been promised. The Red Cross has disbursed rehabilitation funds.

IT'S SWELL TO FEEL SWELL!

To guard your health demand Fresh cigarettes

They BOTH feel swell. . . Young Miss Mary Perry of Cleveland, Ohio, old Mr. W. C. Perry of Indianapolis, Indiana, granddaughter and grandfather. Both delight in FRESH Old Golds. Both say, "It's swell to feel swell! O. G.'s are easier on throat and nerves!"

YOU CAN'T BUY A STALE OLD GOLD

"MIGHT jes' as well smoke a parcel o' hay!"
Grandpa used to grumble, whenever I lit up a cigarette.

But he quit being pernickety, the minute he tried one of my Old Golds. "I got to admit," he confessed, "this here cigarette is fresh an' tasty as berries an' cream! Fact is . . . I like it!"

So will you! . . . Old Golds are tasty because the prize crop tobaccos, blended in them, give these cigarettes an appealing double-mellow flavor all their own! And Old Golds are fresh, because every bit of their rich flavor and fragrance is guarded from dryness, dust, and dampness, by an exclusive double Cellophane package. Protected by an EXTRA jacket of moisture-proof Cellophane, two jackets instead of one . . . Old Golds remain delightfully and healthfully FRESH despite the most trying July weather.

Good to your taste, and good to you . . . you can't go stale on FRESH Old Golds!
